1972 Mitre Vol. XI

Bishop Dunne High School
Dallas, Texas

In the 15th and 16th centuries, Europe lifted itself out of the chaos and confusion of the Dark Ages and renewed its interests in exploration, experimentation, and discovery. This rebirth manifested itself in a burst of creativity which gave a new impetus to learning and to living, and a new faith in the potential of man.

If we look closely at our own time, we can see parallels to that earlier revival. As Dunne moves swiftly into the 70's, we see here those earlier characteristics - that same energy, that same creative impulse, that same humanitarian impulse. In our unique and very modern way, we at Dunne are immensely involved and dedicated to the spirit of Renaissance.

What happens when school
Comes around that August Mountain

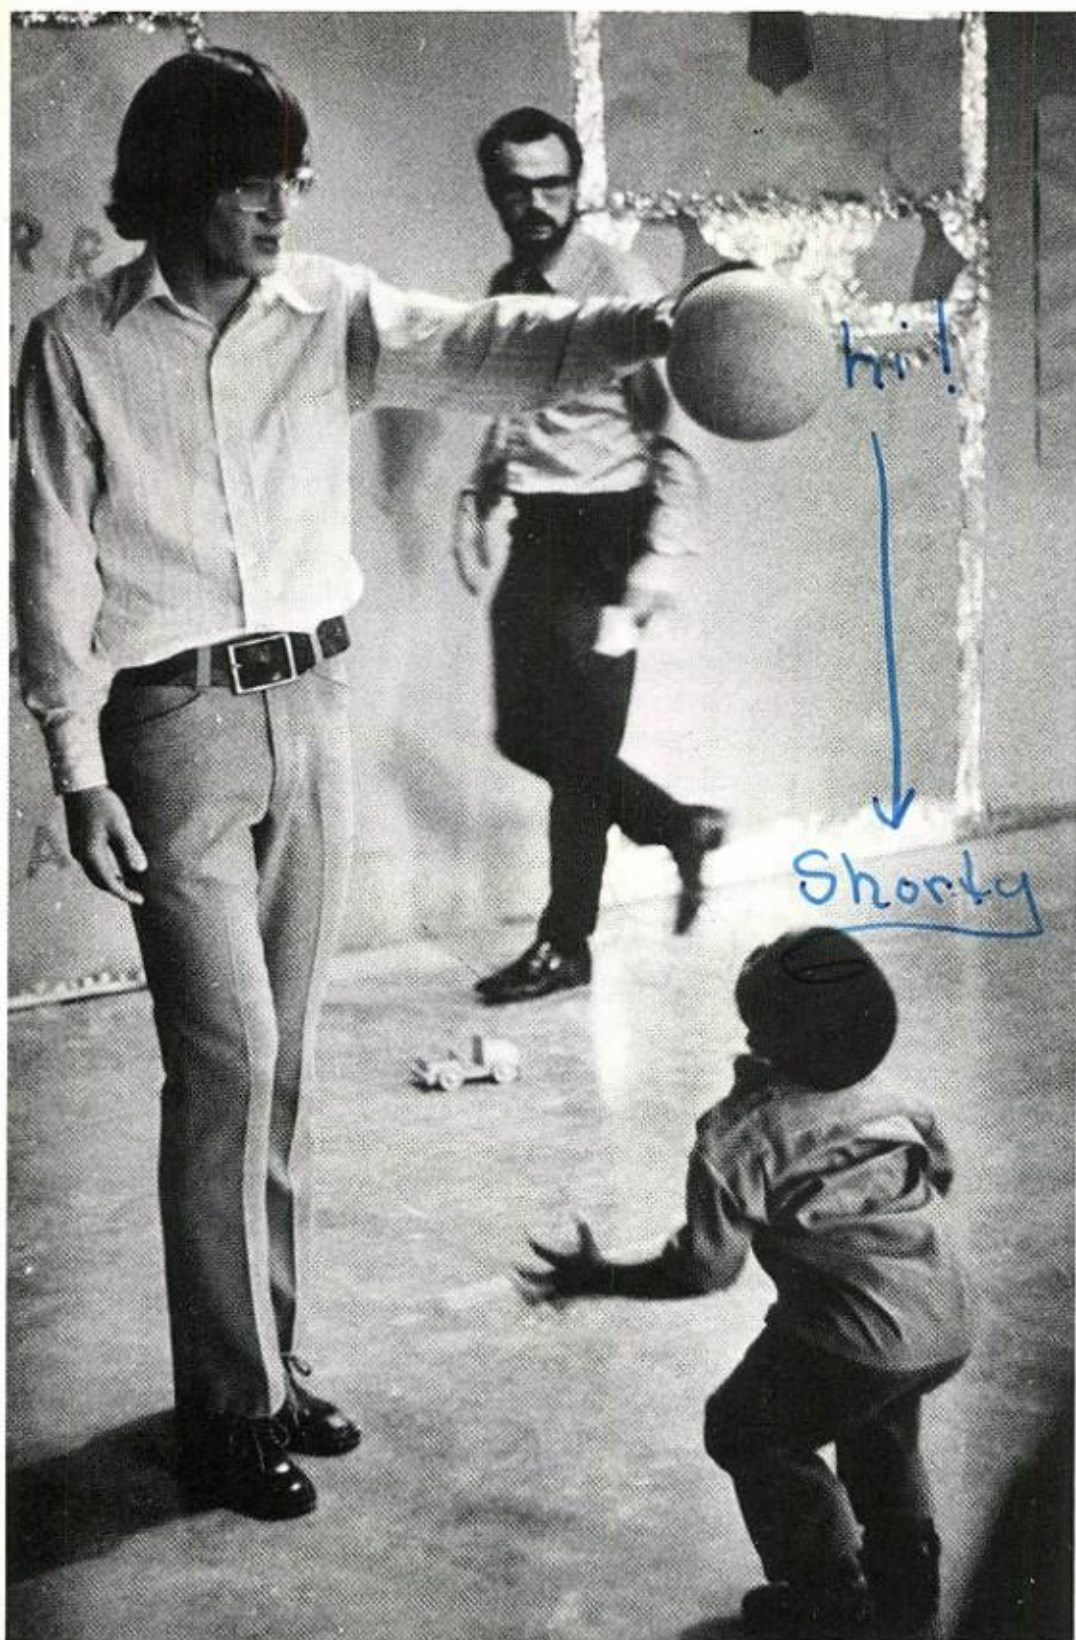

School has just begun
How hot the days with sun
And just before you know it
I perspire and My blouse shows it
Deoderant I have none!

Shakespeare's Hamlet exclaimed, "What a piece of work is man!" At Dunne that infinite admiration for man's capabilities and a faith in his willingness to create a beautiful world are reflected in the efforts toward community service - and in a deep commitment to God and to our fellow man. They are also evident in the earnest quest for self-knowledge and in the joy of shared experiences.

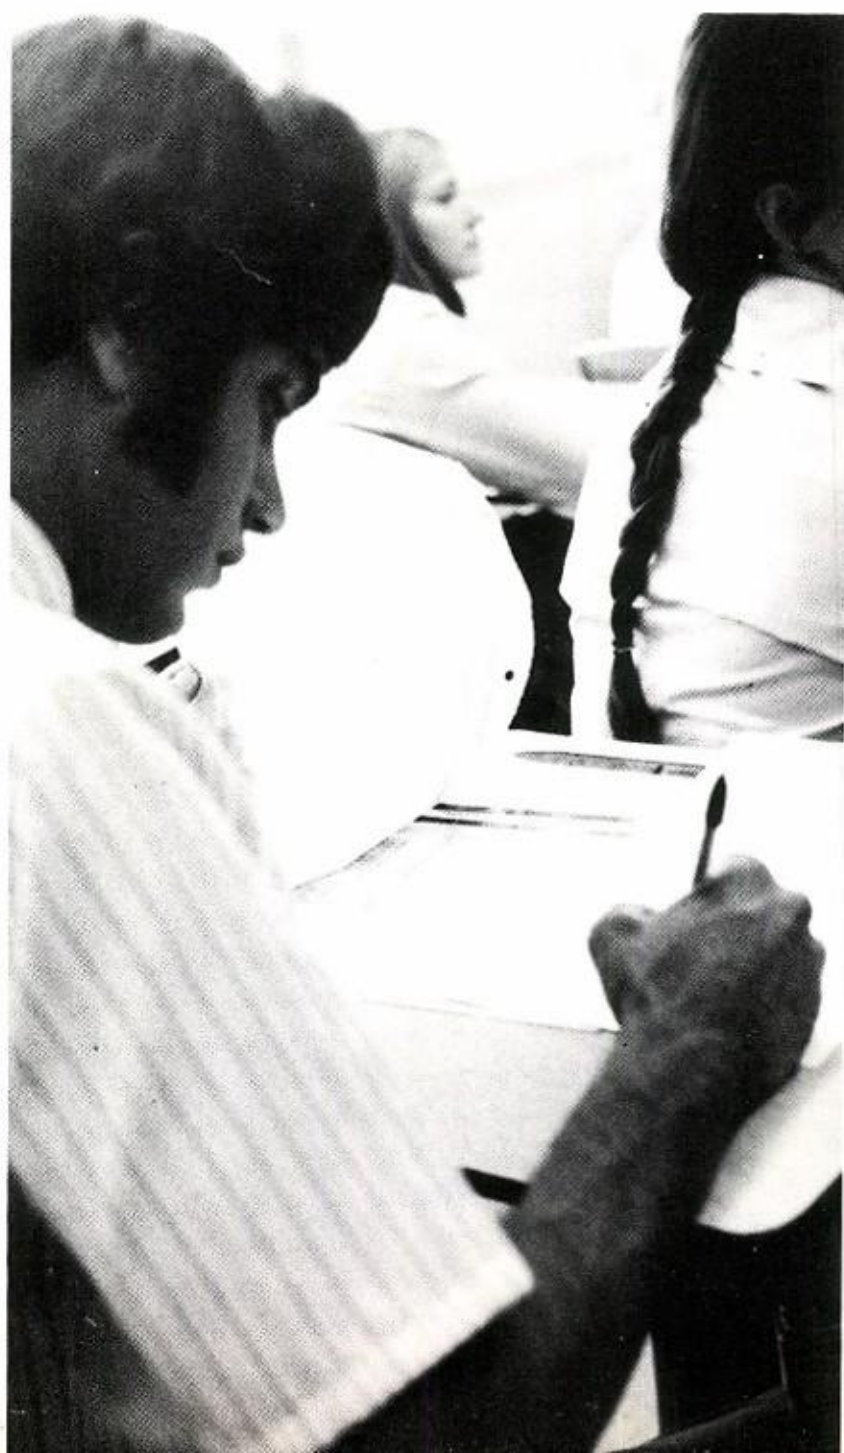

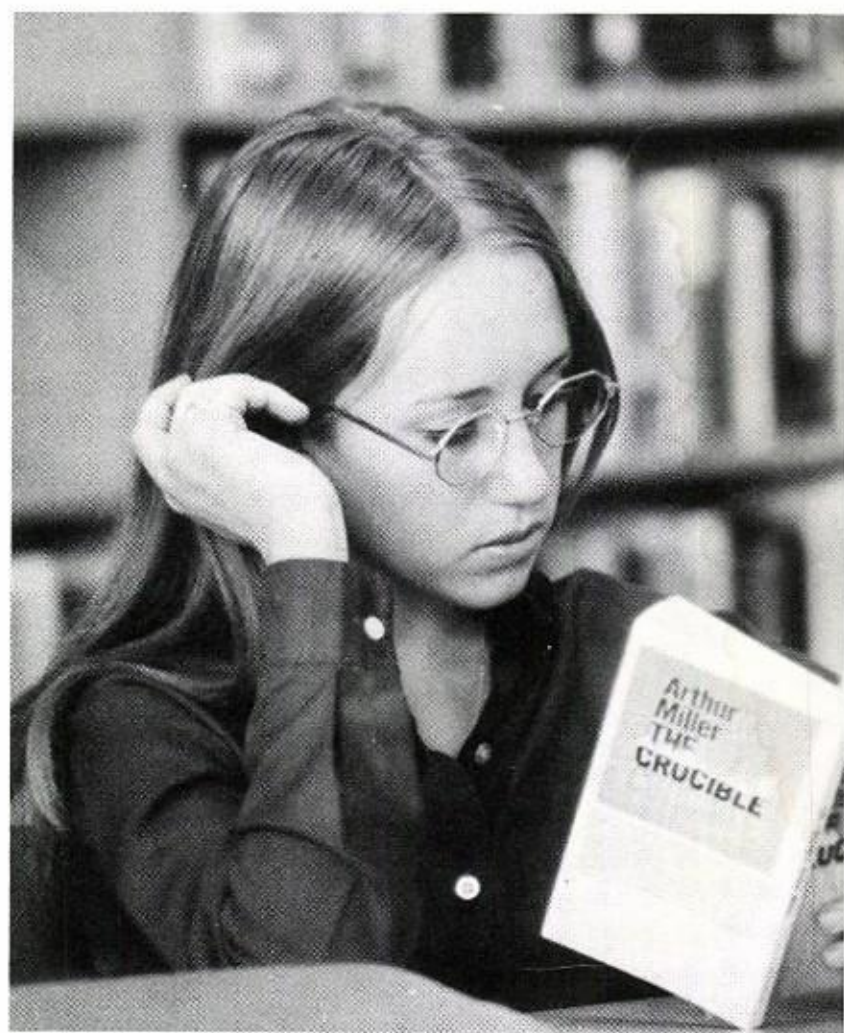

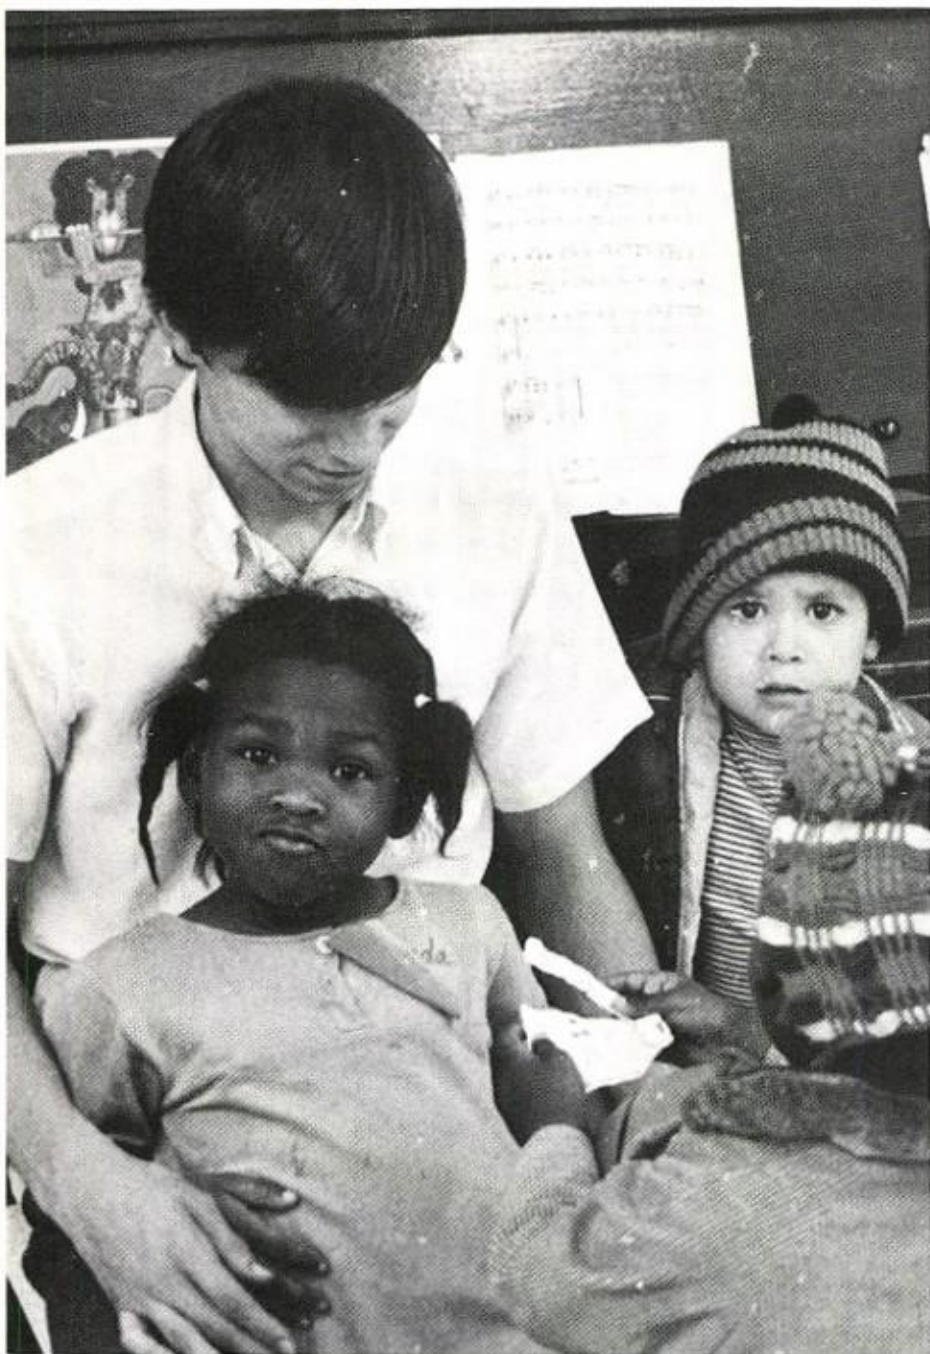

Dunne occasionally sends various of its members far from the home ground in search of insights which will provide them with a better understanding of the world in which they live. Travels this year included tours of Western and Eastern Europe, and also involved shorter field trips to such areas as the Arbuckle Mountains of Oklahoma. Students also found that much could be gained through a re-discovery of their own campus grounds and its facilities.

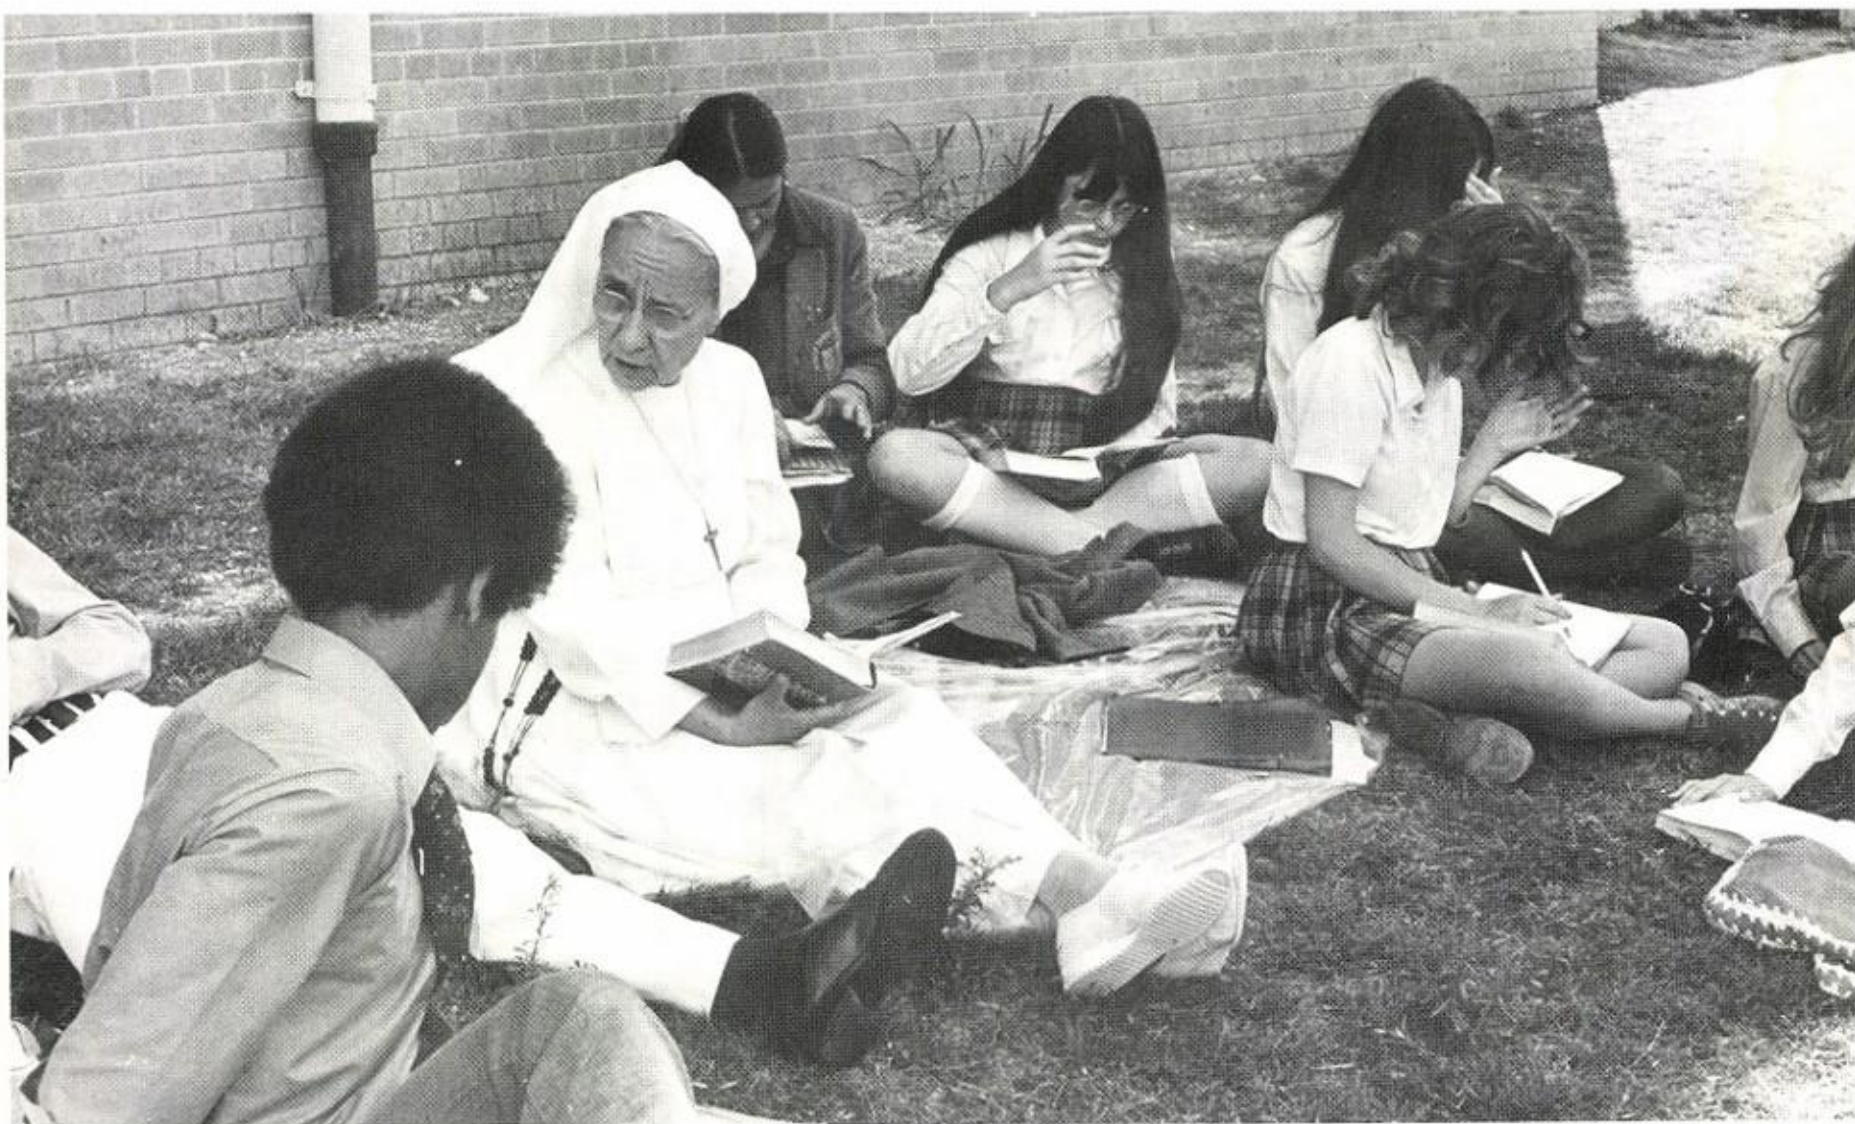

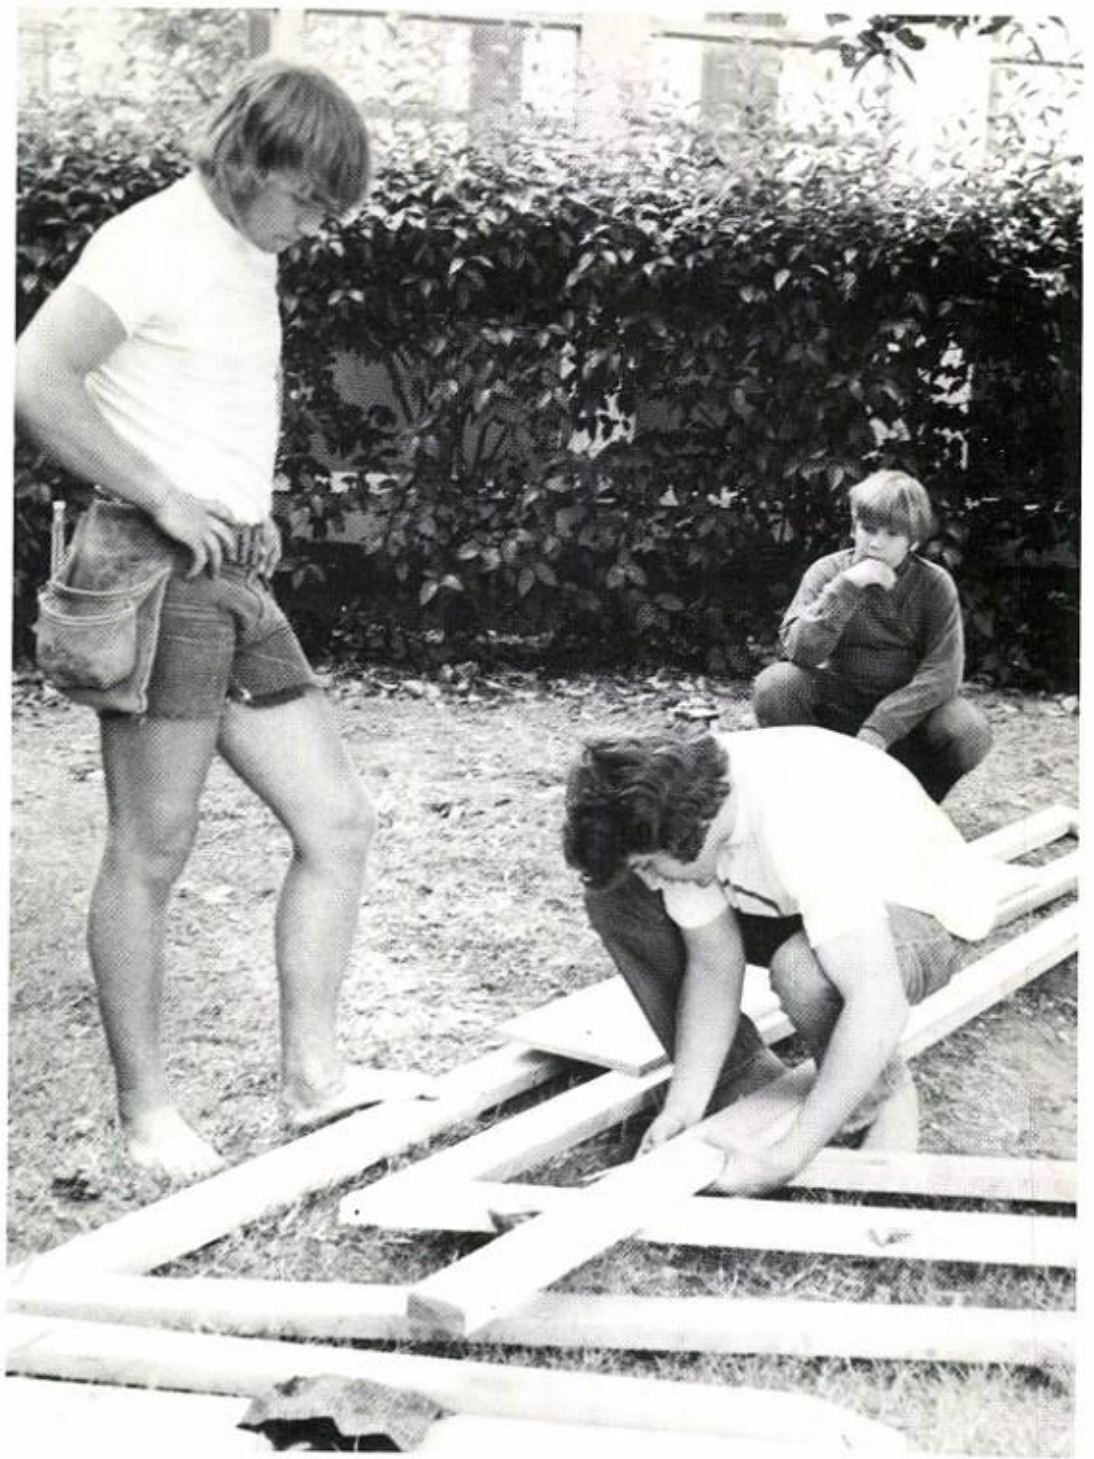

Dear Valerie
 this is to make up for all those juicy things I said about your person. I think that you are one of the nicest,
 most dependable person
 I have ever known.
 And the only person who can put up with my ability to act
 like a stone nut.
 Love
 Andie

The Renaissance revival of learning became at Dunne a revision of learning method and attitude. Flexible modular scheduling replaced the old block system of time. Classes now met at alternating times for a variety of time periods. Resource periods were established for out-of-class course work. Such areas as the auditorium, cafeteria, and audio-visual rooms were utilized for large group instruction. Senior theology students left campus to work at various centers in the Dallas area, and students at large frequently enjoyed classes held outdoors on the campus lawn.

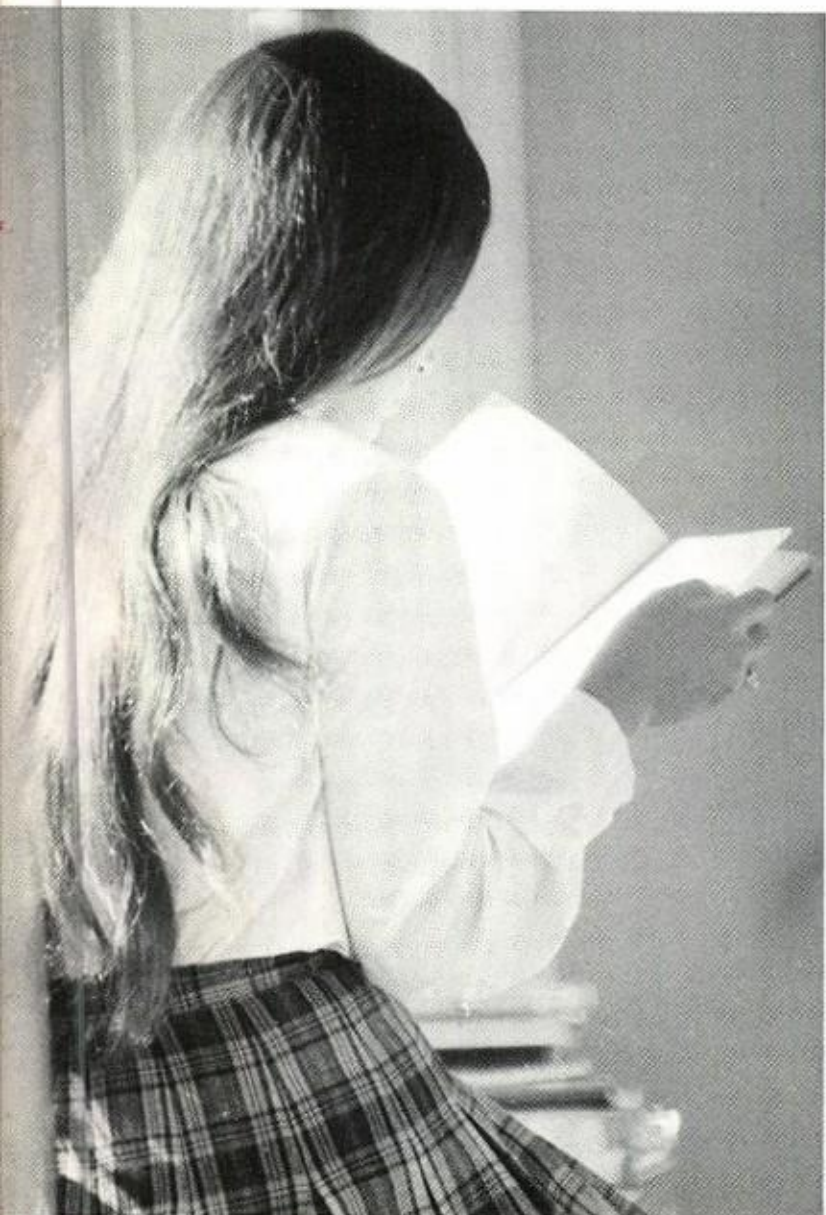

A profound resurgence of creative impulse was made obvious by the production of five dramatic productions including comedy, musical review, musical comedy and serious drama. The spring band concert highlighted a group that in not quite three years had grown into an award winning organization, and the school halls and grounds everywhere reflected the artistry and skills of our many students.

Dunne's Renaissance sings in the appreciation of a moment's contemplation of a book, a building, or a leaf. It shouts of energy and joy, and finds beauty everywhere. We at Dunne, in our finest moments, are in easy accord with the 16th century character who "finds tongues in trees, books in running brooks and good in everything."

"A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops." These words, spoken by Henry Brooks Adams seventy years ago, certainly apply to Mrs. Treppendahl. As she leaves Dunne this year, her influence will be left behind. She has produced three yearbooks and has been a source of inspiration to students and faculty. Her devotion and love will continue to guide each of us in the future. In an attempt to return some of the concern she has shown toward us, we gratefully dedicate the 1972 Mitre to Mrs. Shirley Treppendahl.

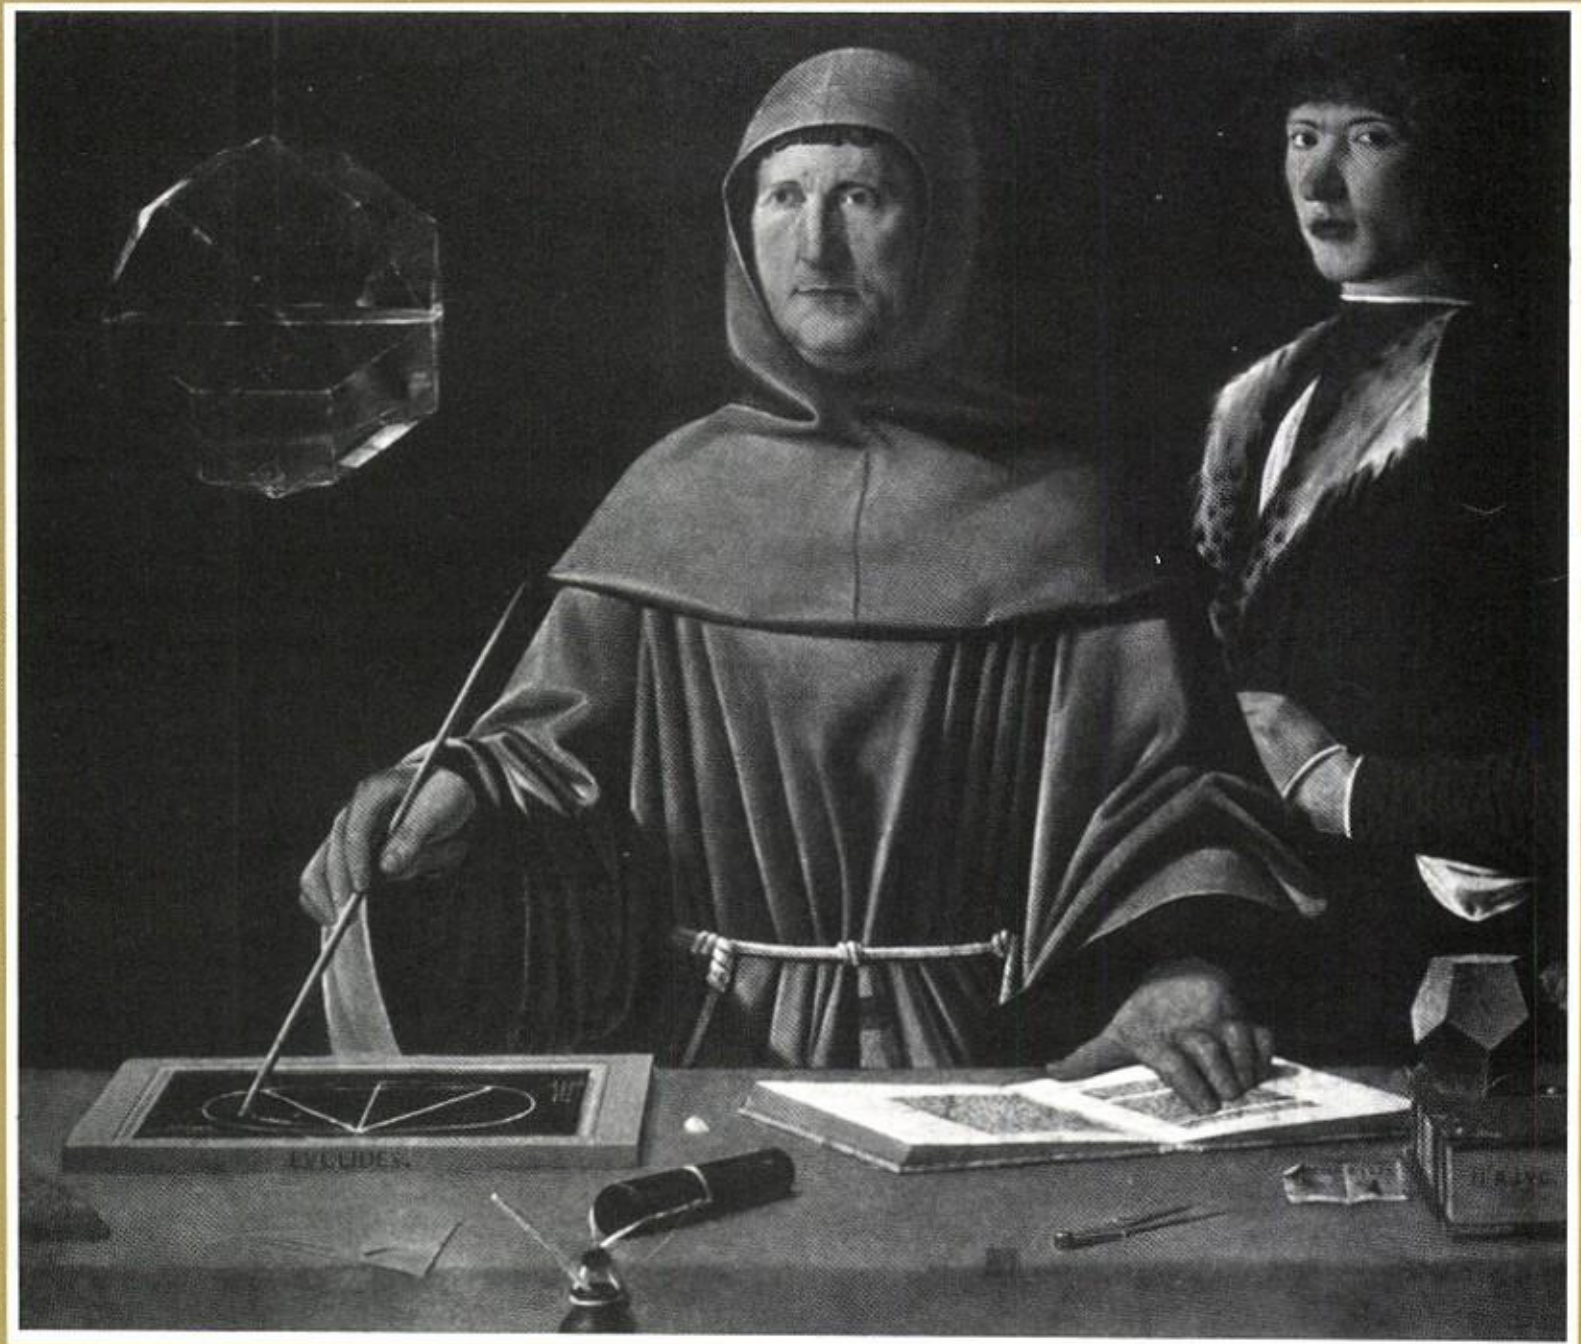

FAREWELL TO CHARM

It seems the tide has swept ashore
 And swiftly drifts me out to sea
 And though my ship has lost control
 An anchor holds me strong.
 Ships have past, a tug a liner
 And several freighters too,
 Yet all those past without a thought
 It's not so true of you.
 As two ships pass on a foggy night
 With caution slow unsure
 One did flash a shining light
 That guided my ship through.
 The fog cleared, the sun arose,
 That ship continued on.
 Yet as I looked back for one last glance,
 By chance to catch the name
 I read those bold white letters clear;
 S. S. TREPPENDAHL

Office Personnel

Mrs. Pribyl assists students and parents during registration.

Mrs. Pribyl is caught by photographer in the midst of a busy day's work.

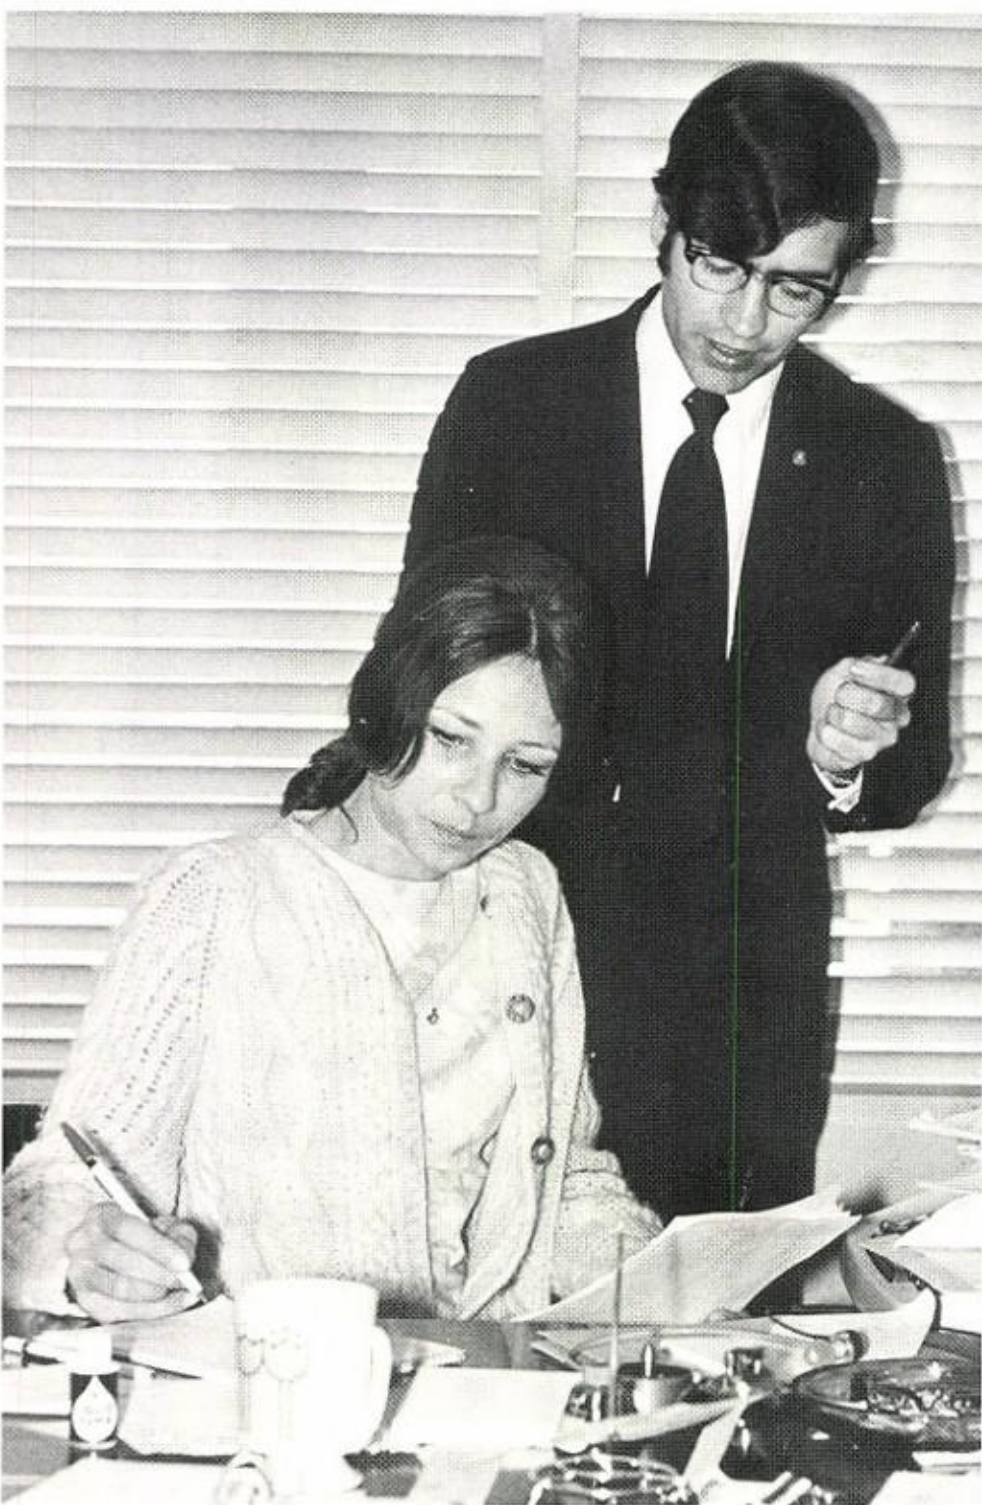

Mrs. Norma Butler and Eleanor Wright straighten out a scheduling problem.

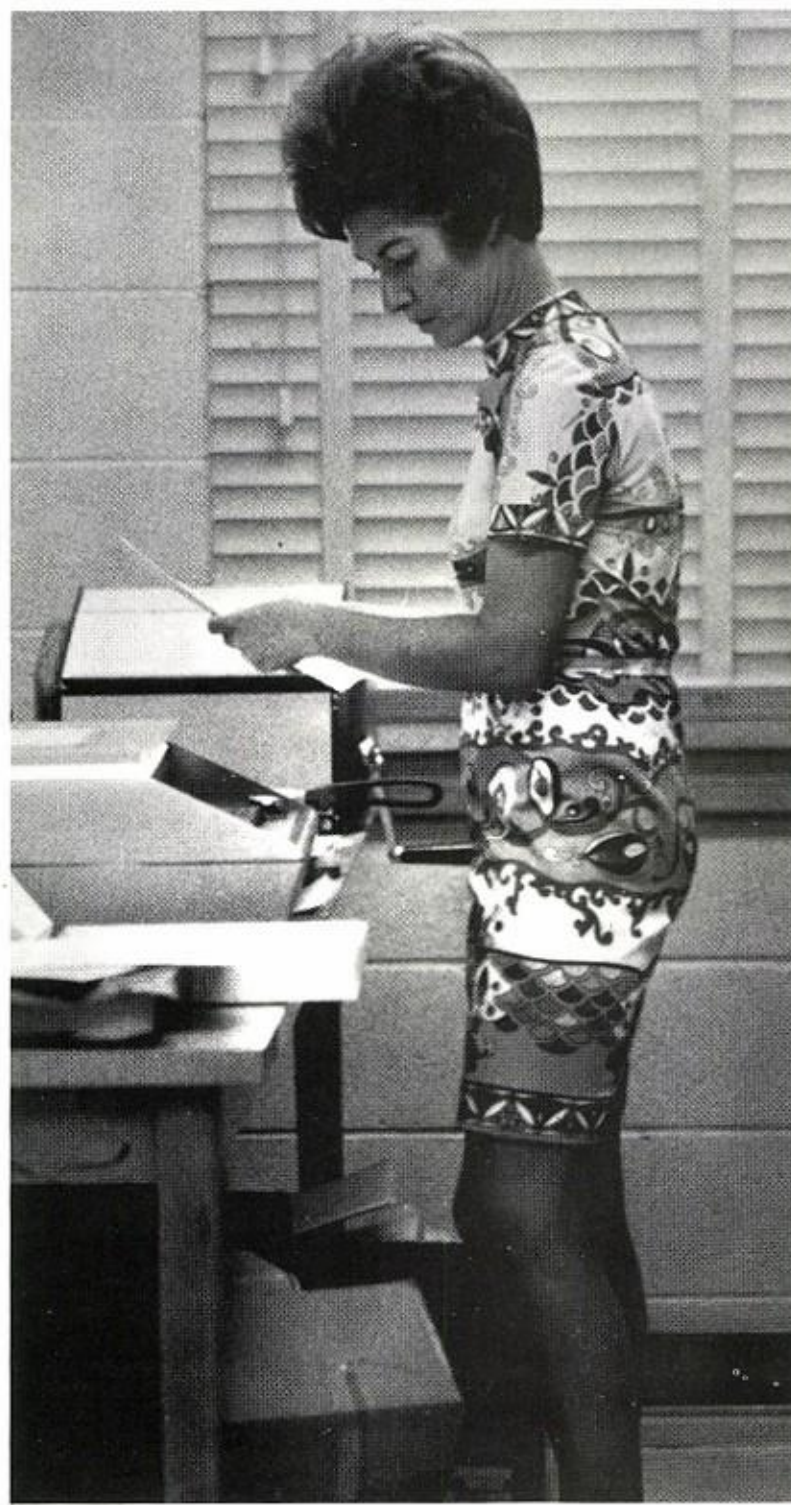

Mrs. Bertha Pick takes care of the book store and other financial areas.

Mrs. Elaine Zeihe helps out in the book store.

Mrs. Bonnie Carpenter and Bro. William Chester deal with attendance.

Mrs. Butler copies some paperwork.

Cafeteria Staff

The cafeteria staff, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Young, prepare delicious meals every day.

Academics

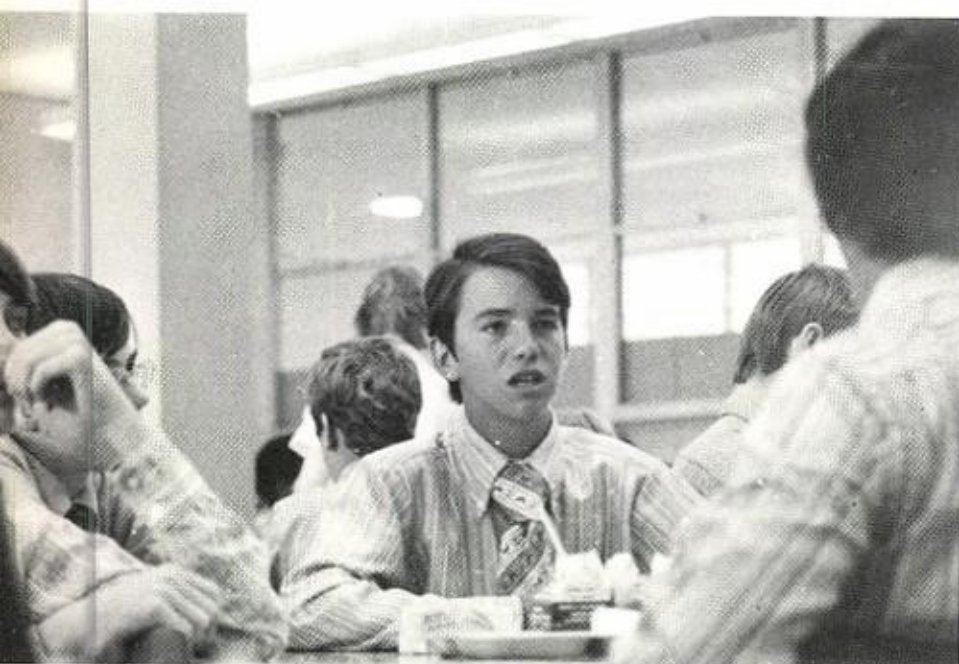

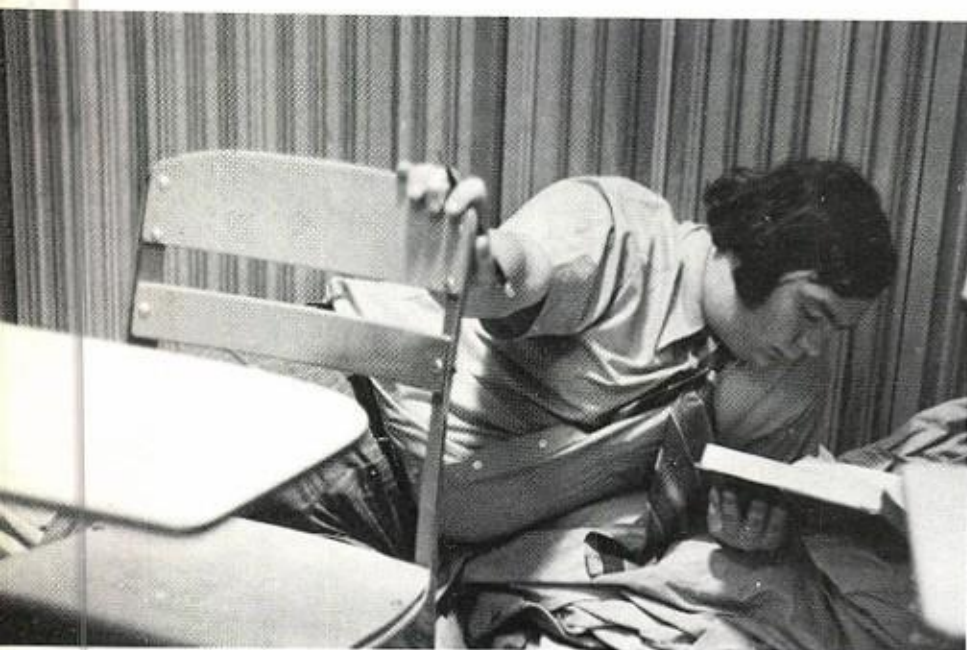

Modular Scheduling

The biggest innovation of the year was modular scheduling. This new system brought into use the cafeteria, auditorium, AV Room, and Resource Centers for group study. Classes varied in length and meeting periods, and students learned to budget their time.

Senior boys are perplexed by difficult scheduling paperwork.

FAR ABOVE: Steve Collmer finds Audio Visual room comfortable for studying. ABOVE: Before scheduling problems had been ironed out, lunch periods were sometimes reduced to one 13 minute mod.

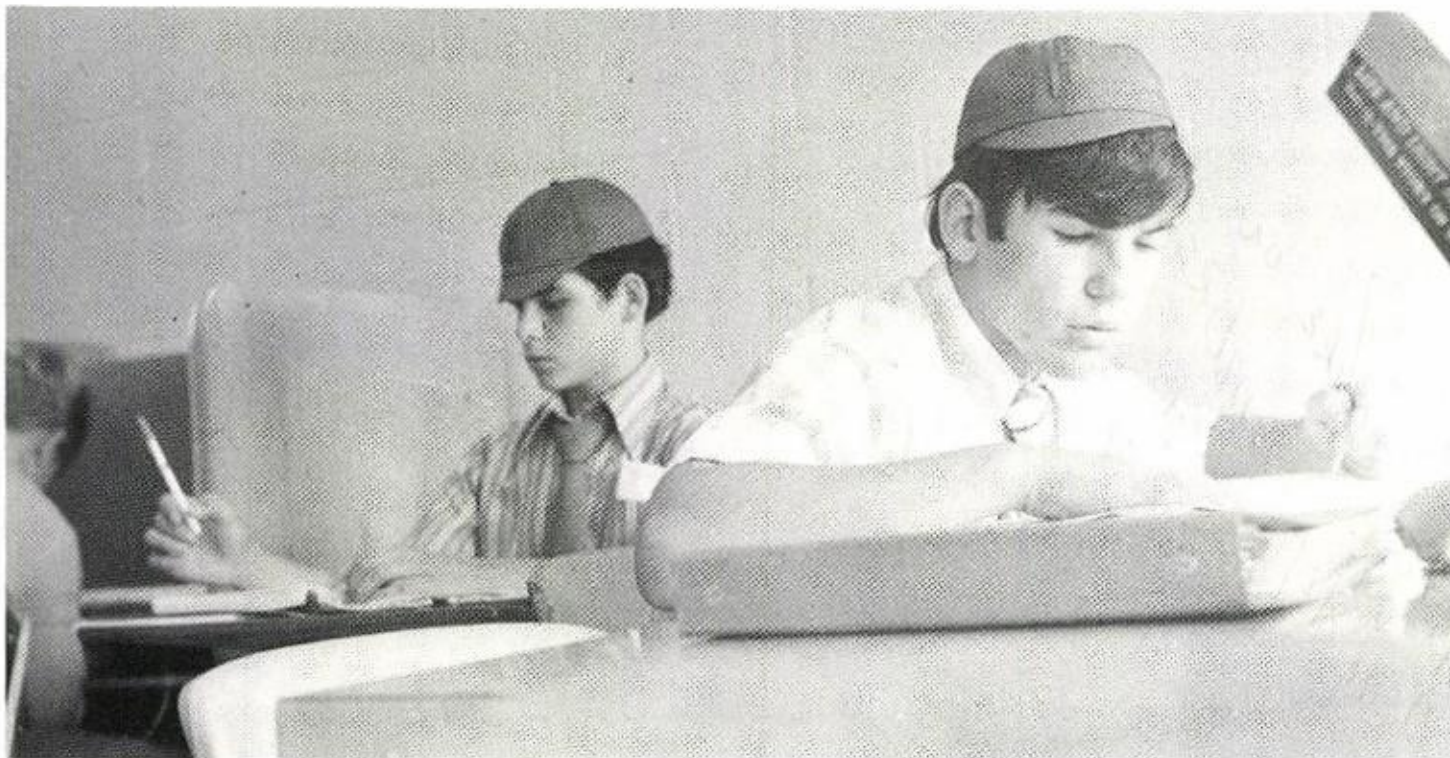

ABOVE: An innovation of the year, the Theology Practicum course, sent Seniors out into the community to perform various services.

Scott Smith studies in the Resource Center.

Benne
Dawes

Tom Owens and Anthony Caliendo study languages in the Resource Center.

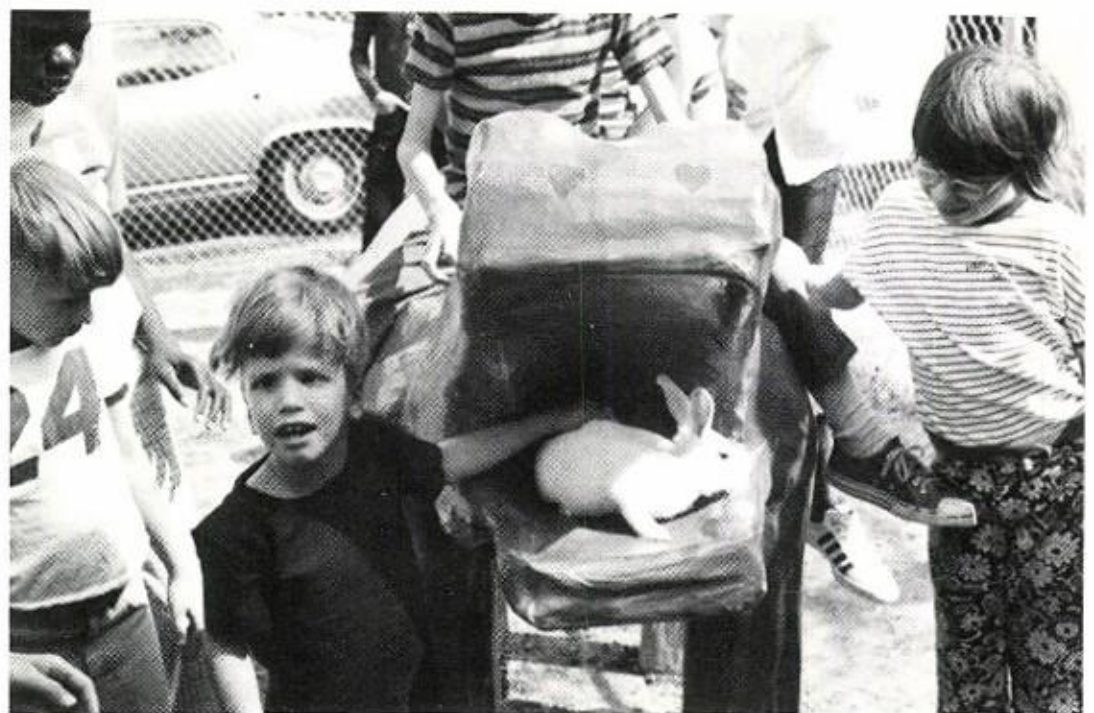

Mod changes every 15 minutes produce hallway traffic.

Art

Sister Maria's art students took part in classes in crafts and drawing. A deeper appreciation of artists and their works was fostered through art history lectures and slides. Dunne's artists added color to the hallways and courtyards with their interesting and amusing papier mache animals.

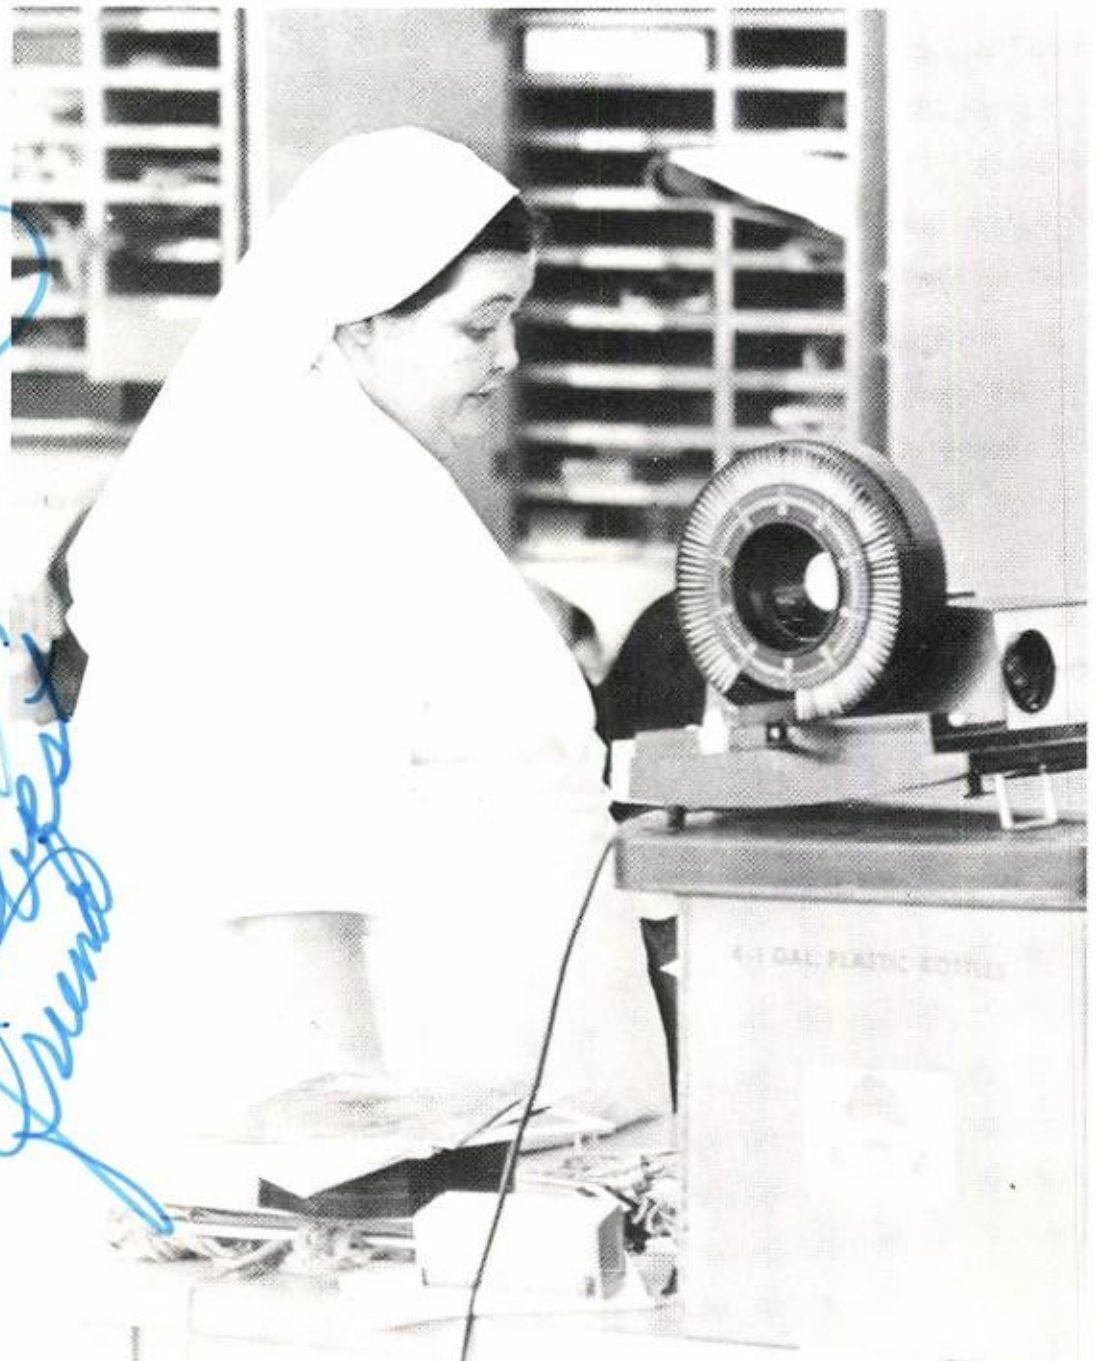

Celina Montes and Karen Hardy admire the hippo they and Denise Machala made.

Children at the John F. Kennedy Special School play with the hippo which was donated to them.

Crafts students enjoyed making animals which brightened the halls and the courtyard.

Sister Marie prepares to show art slides to her large group.

Band

Dunne's three year old State Championship Band met during the week for rehearsals - both full and sectional. Beginner's Band was offered to those students wishing to become involved with this organization.

Freddie Clemons listens attentively to Mr. Parsons during outside practice.

Mr. Parsons directs the State Championship Falcon Band.

Christy Gross, Pat Clay, Bernadette Bielamowicz, and Paul Enna get it together at band practice.

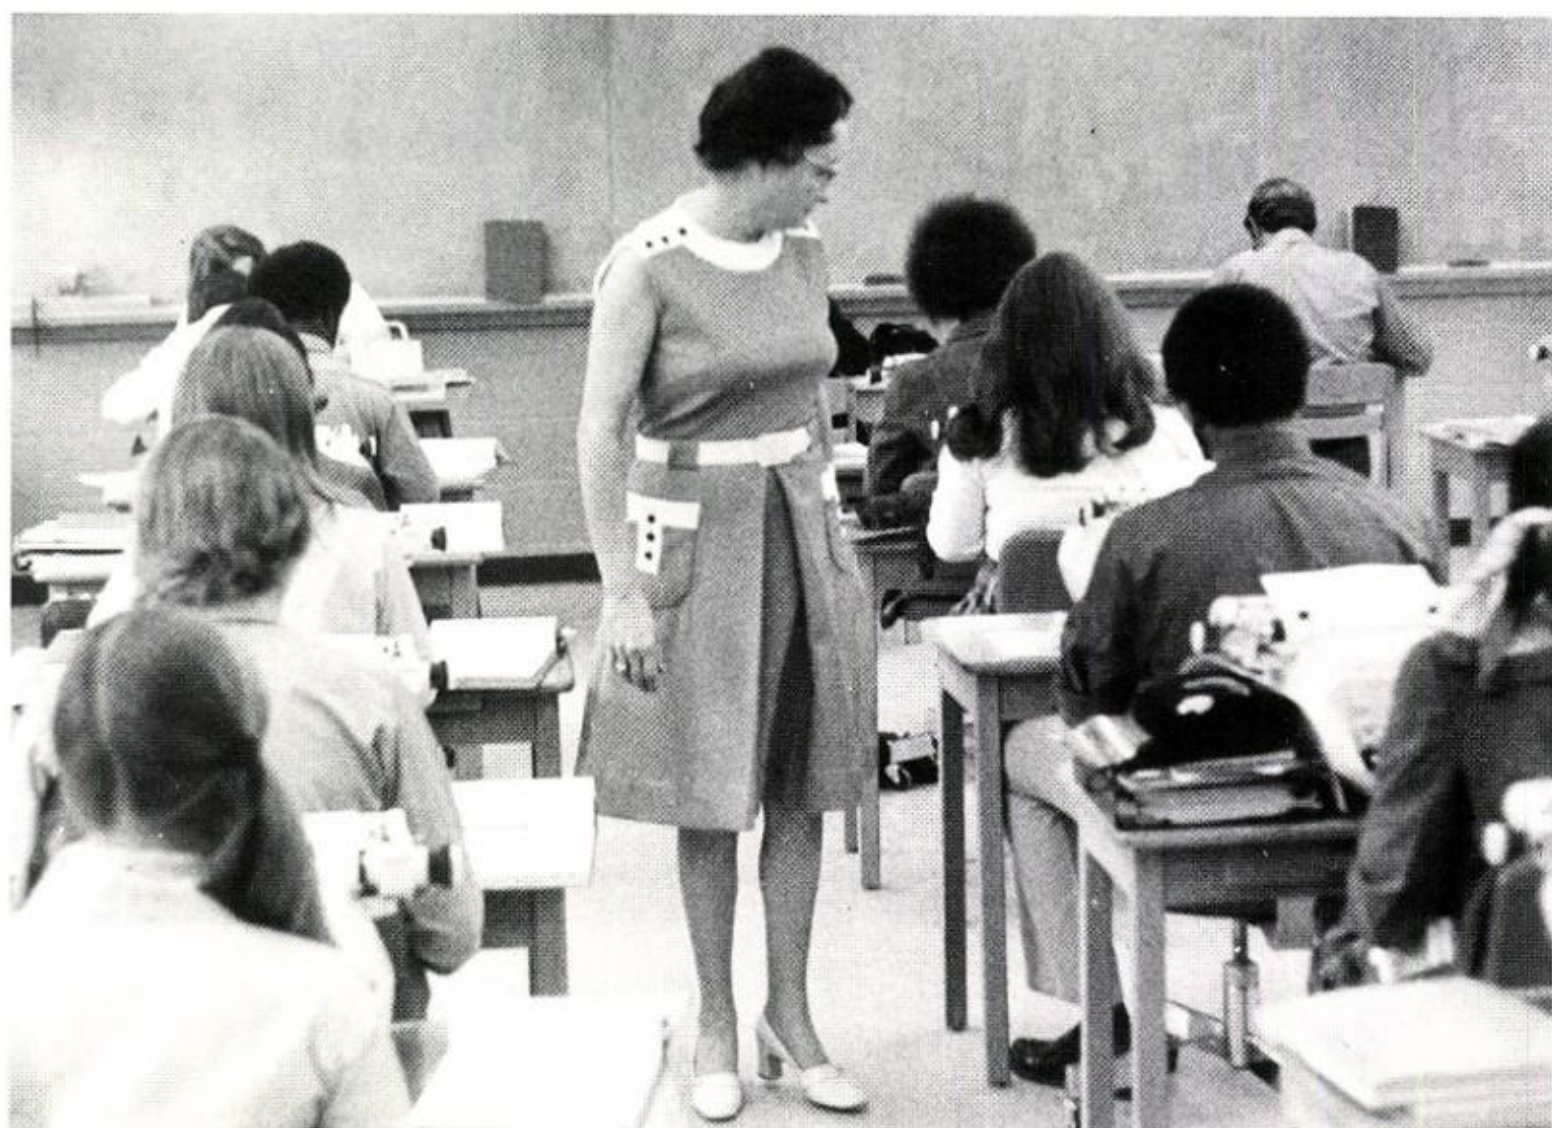

The marching band works hard to learn many routines.

Business Education

Mrs. Snell's Typing class practices keyboard techniques.

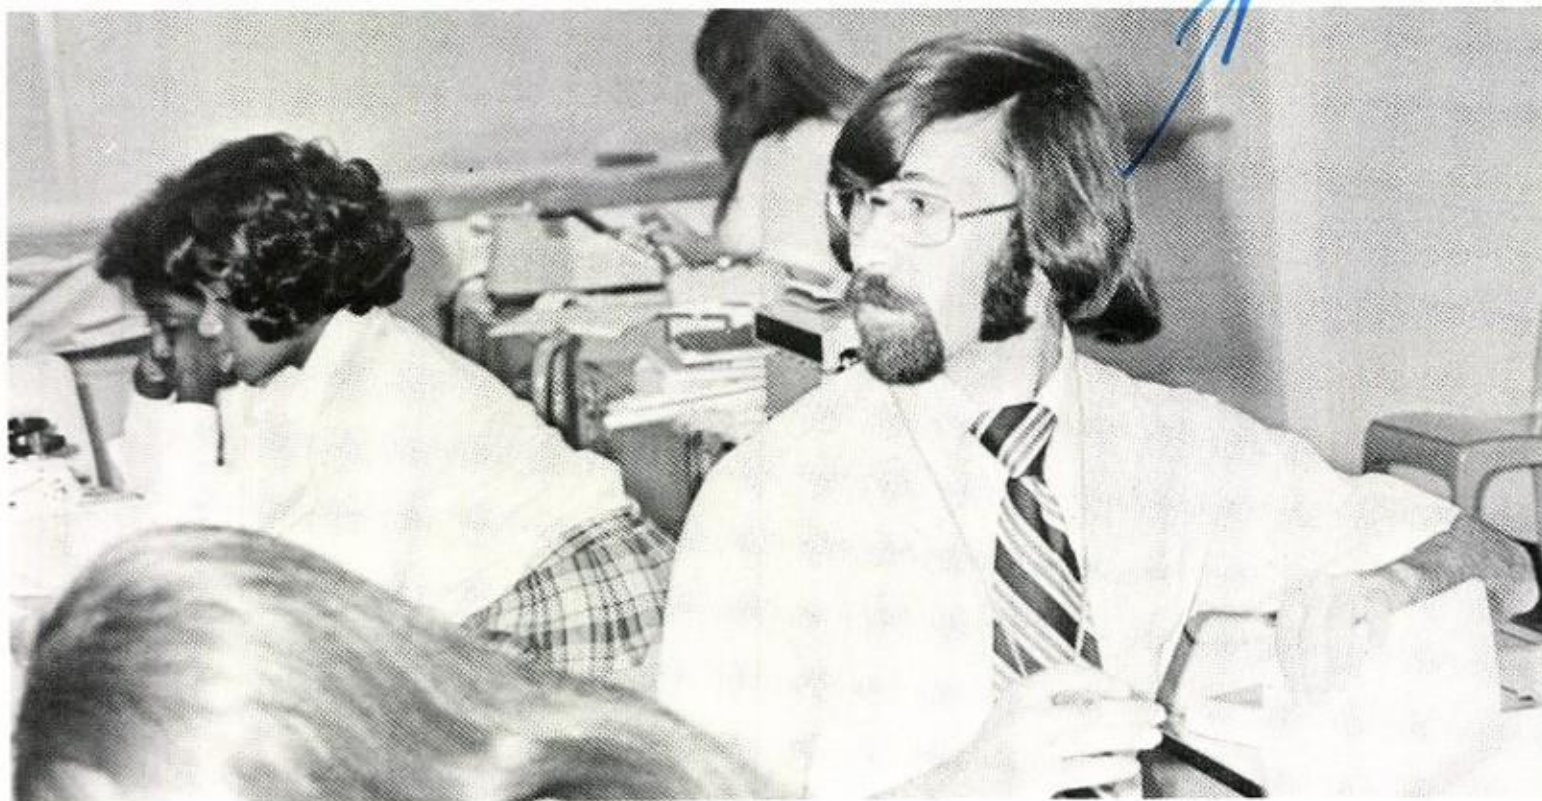

Mrs. Snell closely watches the work of her students.

Students concerned with Business Education were offered a variety of courses including typing, shorthand, and clerical practice. These courses gave students a taste of the business world and prepared them for the future.

Irene Saldana practices on an electric typewriter.

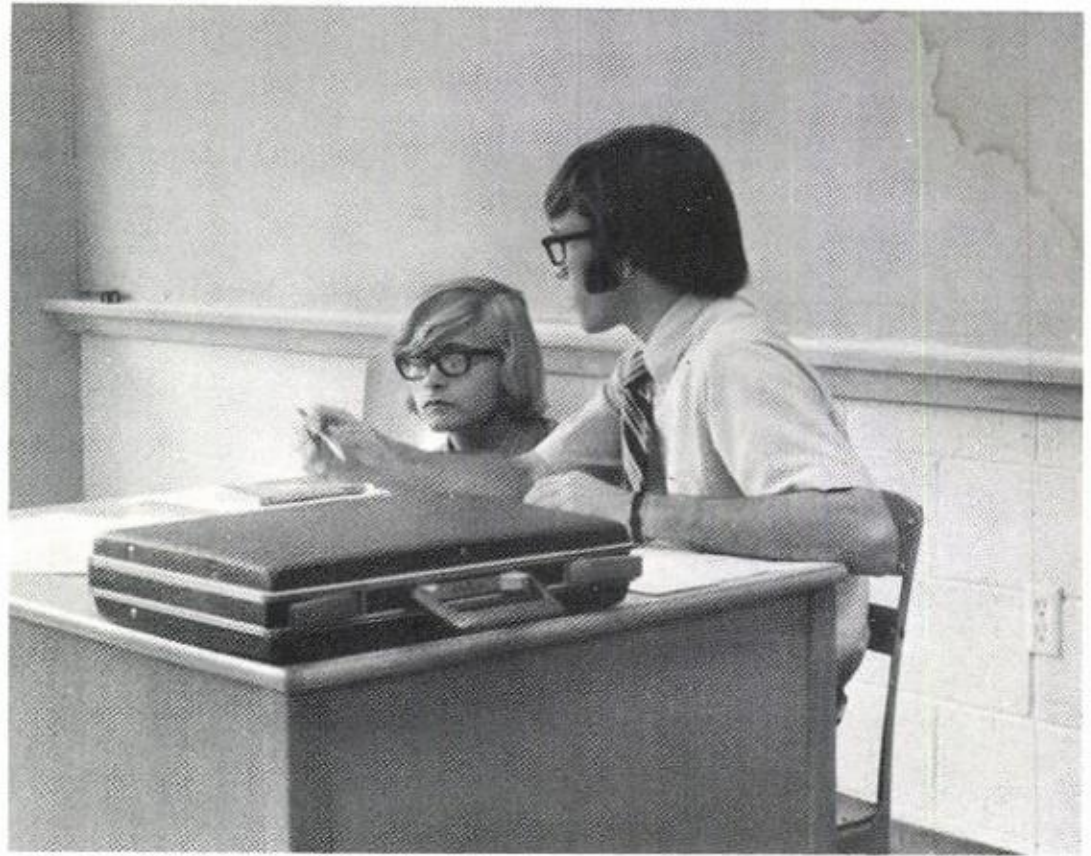

Soul Brother Joe

Brother Joe works in the Business Resource Center.

English

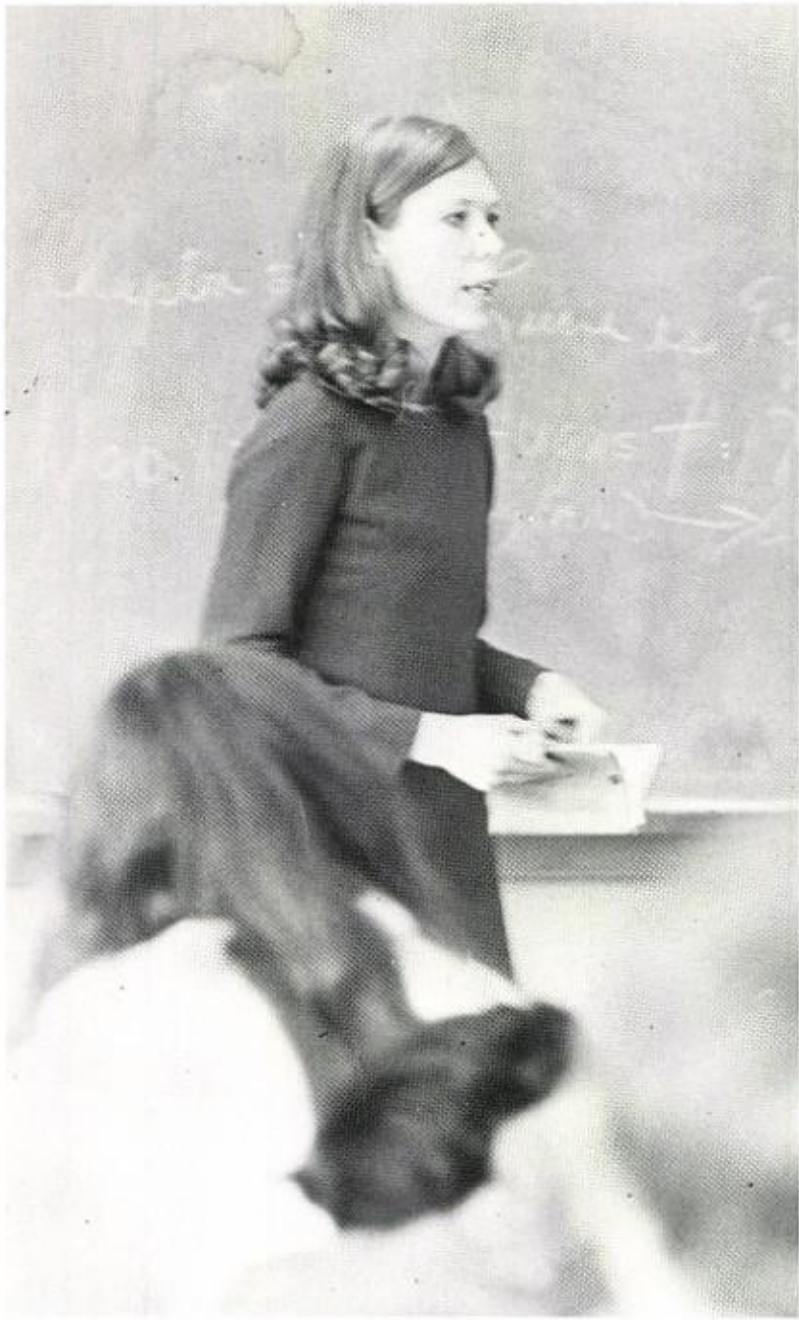

A new approach to English classes was begun this year. Freshmen and sophomores concentrated on grammar and composition while juniors and seniors studied literature. Paperback novels replaced textbooks for the upperclassmen, and large group lecture periods were spent with films and notes.

Chris Stark consults with Bro. Joe.

Mrs. Shipman, who taught all of the Juniors, contemplates a student's question.

Mrs. Empey reviews material with her class.

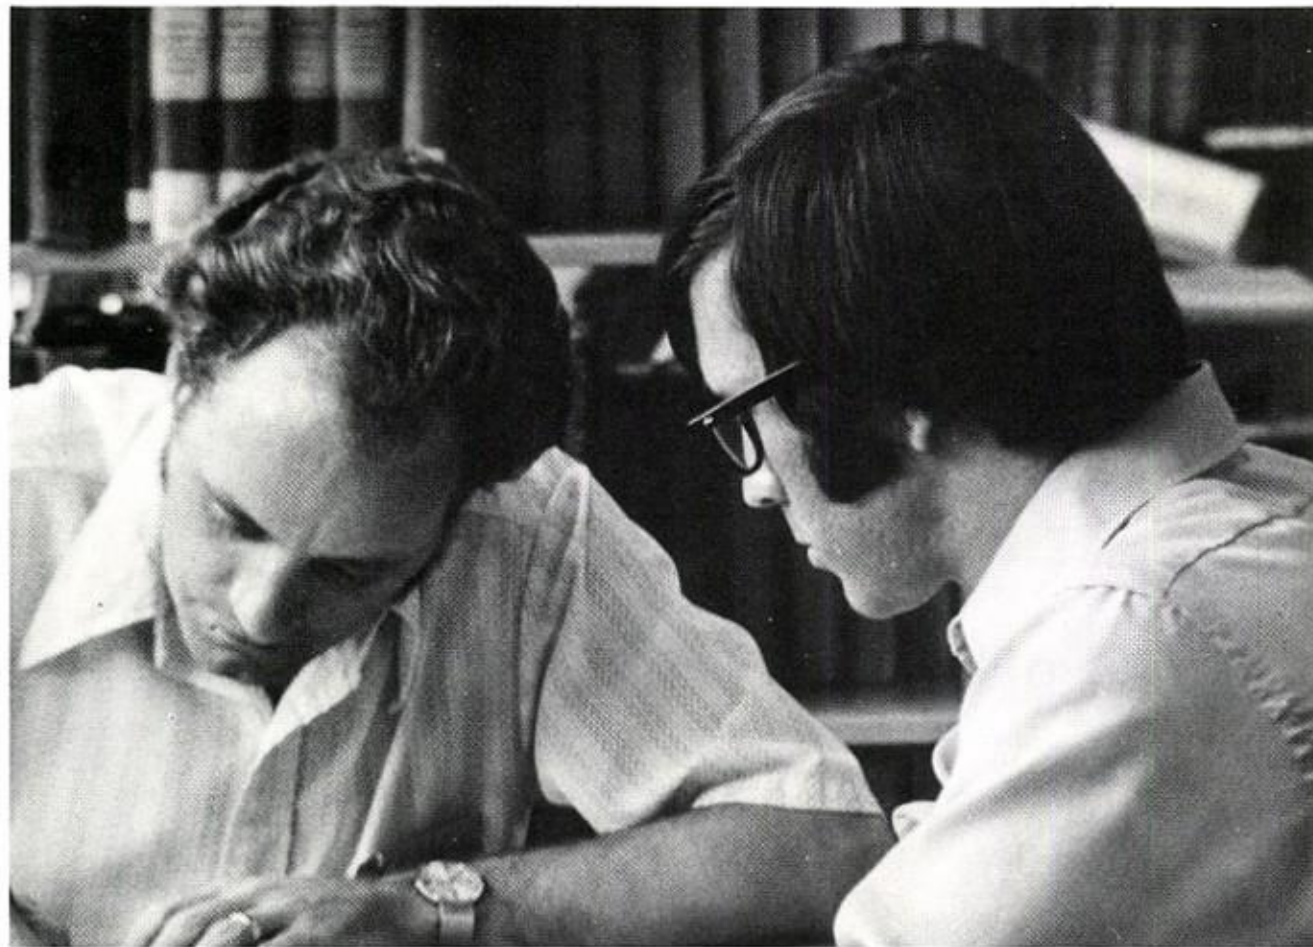

Lucy Gomez thoughtfully studies her notes.

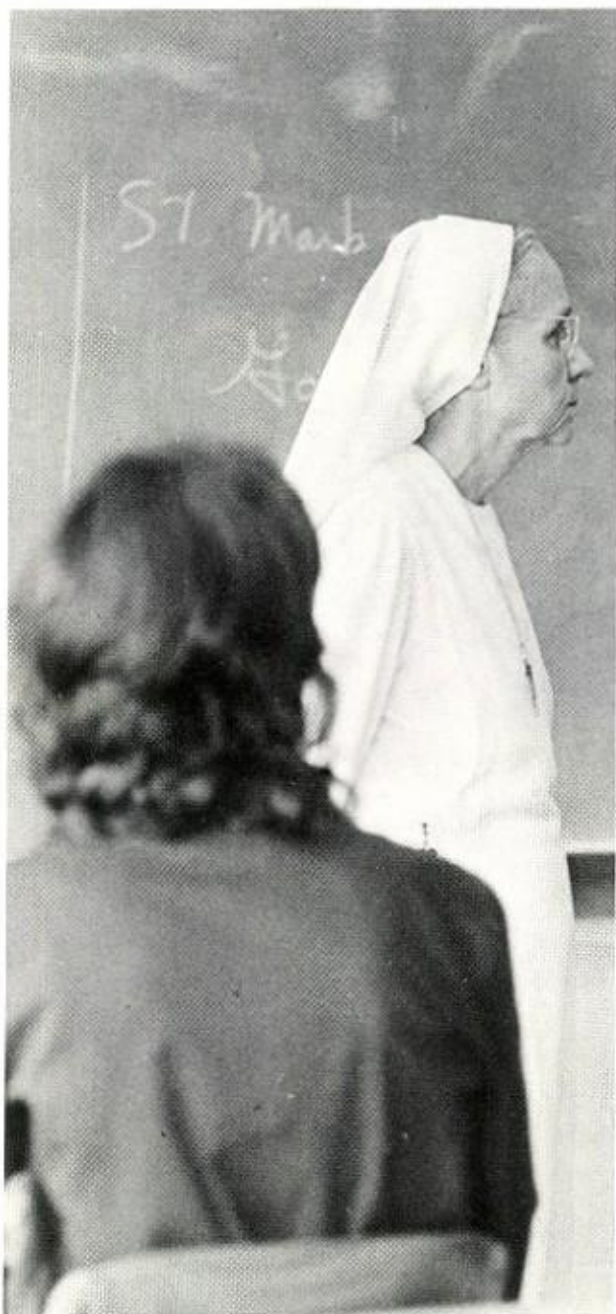

Mrs. Treppendahl receives gifts from her Senior English classes.

Foreign Languages

This year Dunne offered courses in Spanish, French, German, and Latin. For the first time a class of German II was introduced into the curriculum. French students journeyed once again to the annual French Symposium and brought back awards and honors.

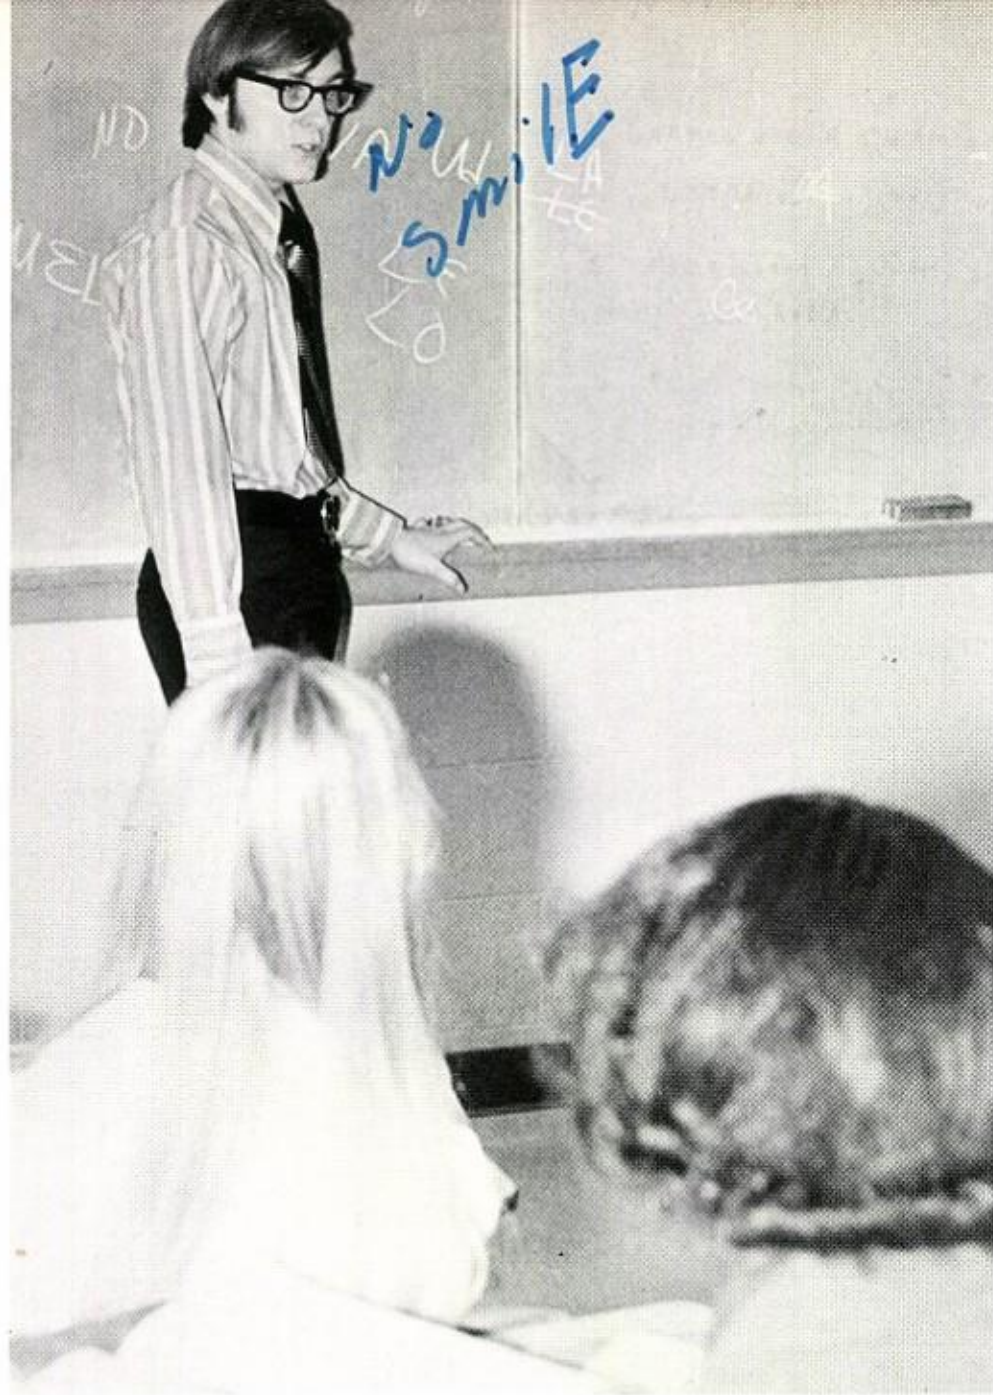

Mr. Parsons discusses his plans for German class with Brother Joe Frisbee.

Sister Mary Catherine explains irregular verbs to her French class.

Mrs. Hinkle and her Latin students prepare for the mod change.

Home Economics

Both girls and boys were involved with home economics, which found them cooking, sewing, and learning about child care. Several faculty luncheons were prepared, and field trips to St. Paul Hospital topped off the year.

Mrs. Boone helps Cathy Macik with sewing skills.

Pam Buchanan ponders a test question.

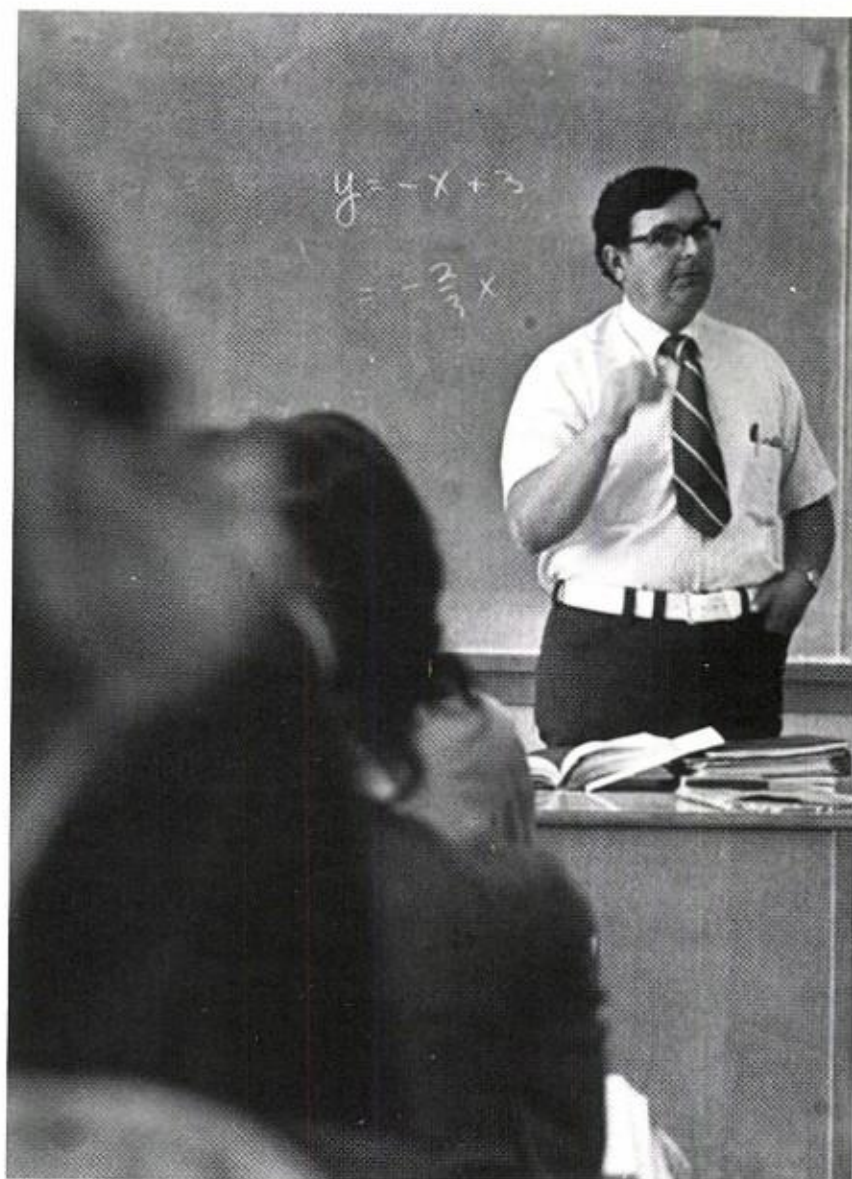

Home Ec girls hold a tasting party.

Math

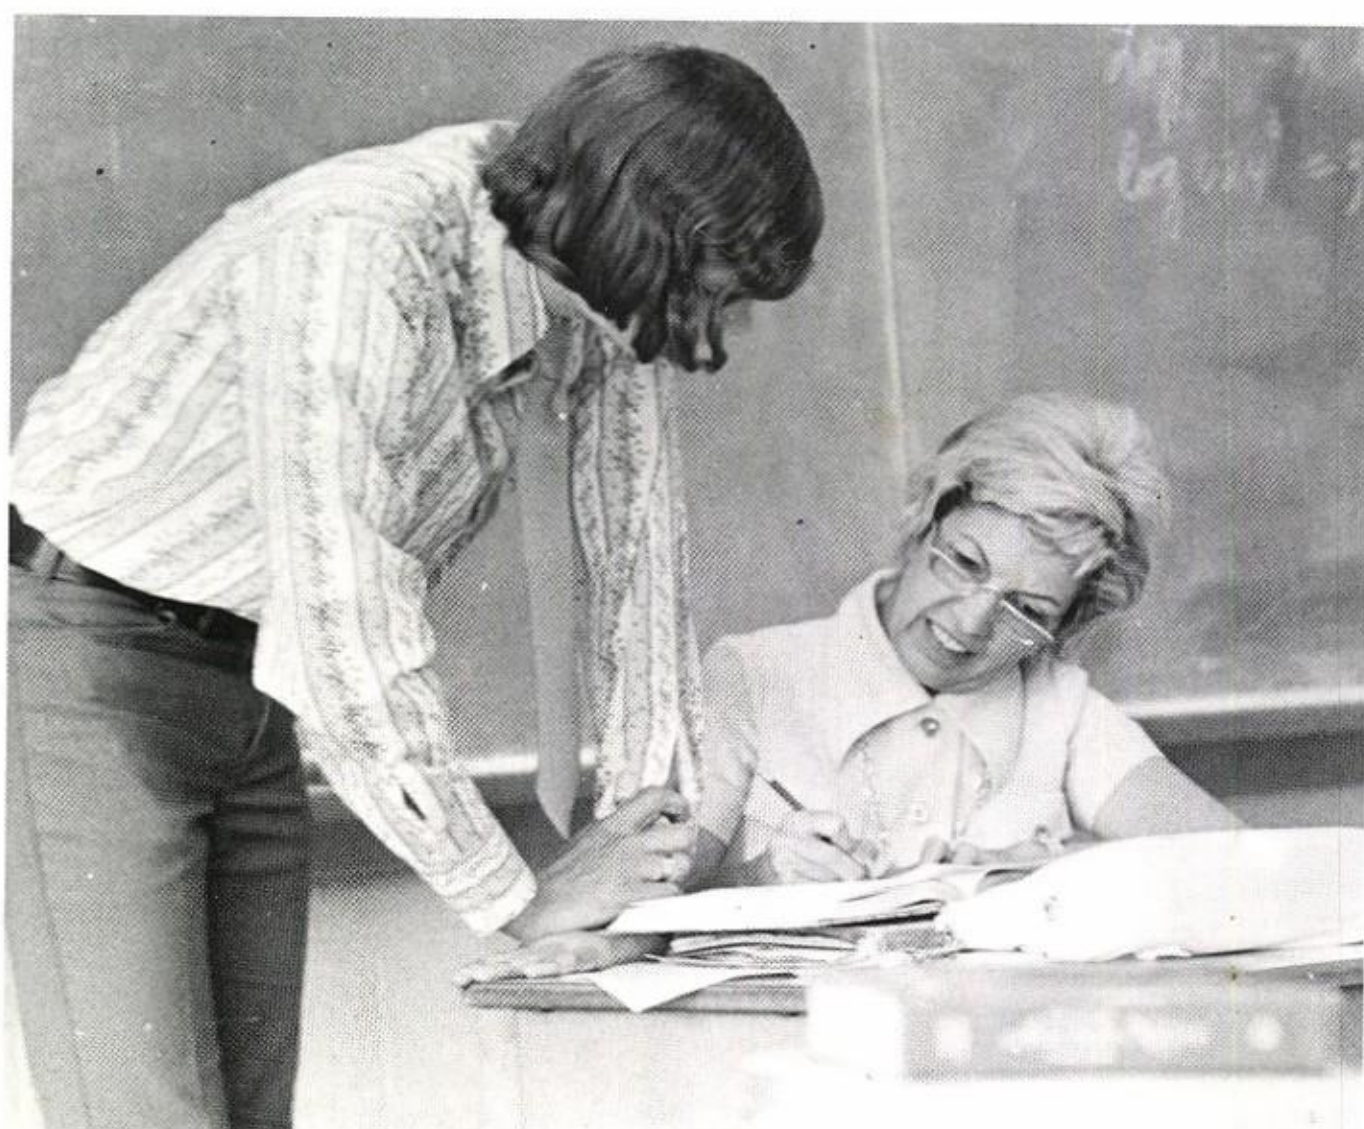

A variety of math courses were offered this year including Computer Science and Trig-Analysis. All math students took the Province Test which helped evaluate teachers and students.

Ed Slovak and Dane Diaz study together.

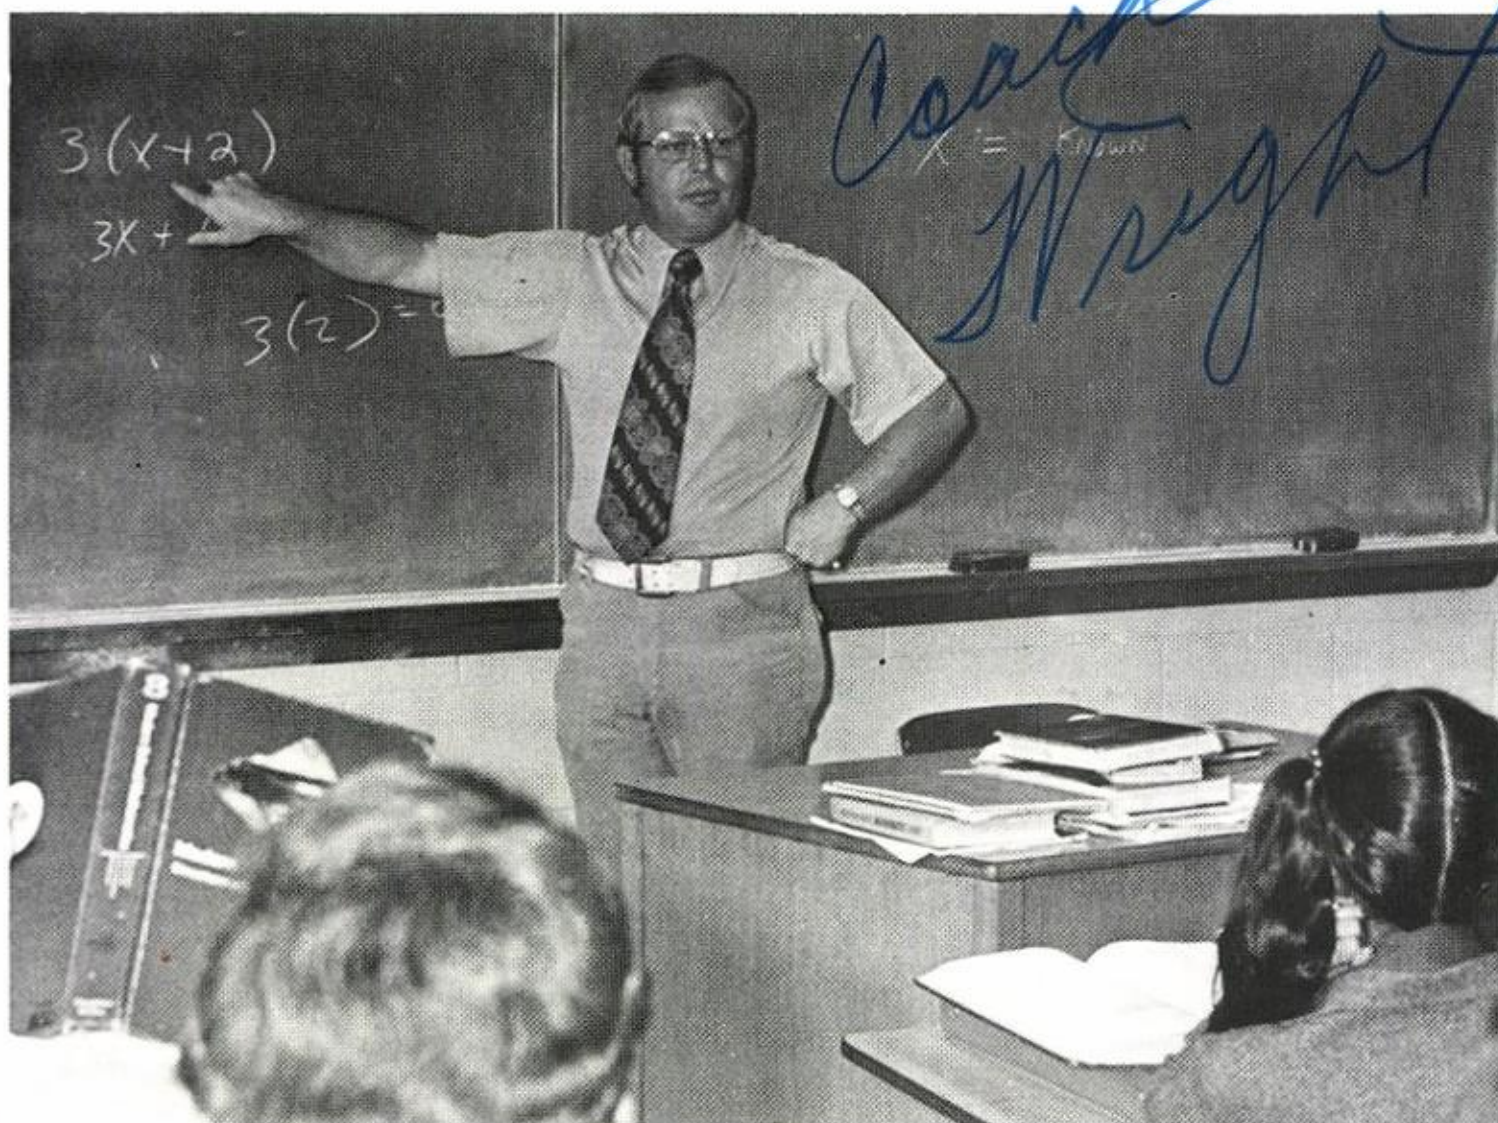

Mr. Worswick solves equations with his Algebra I students.

Mrs. Crissey gives individualized attention to Jeff Moore.

Students show varying degrees of attention in the Resource Center.

Mr. Wright explains a factoring problem.

Physical Education

Girls' PE classes consisted of volleyball, basketball, softball, and tumbling. The Drill Team and Cheerleaders practiced their routines and cheers. The boys' program included the use of the weight machine along with outdoor sports.

Mrs. Taylor pauses during girls' indoor exercises.

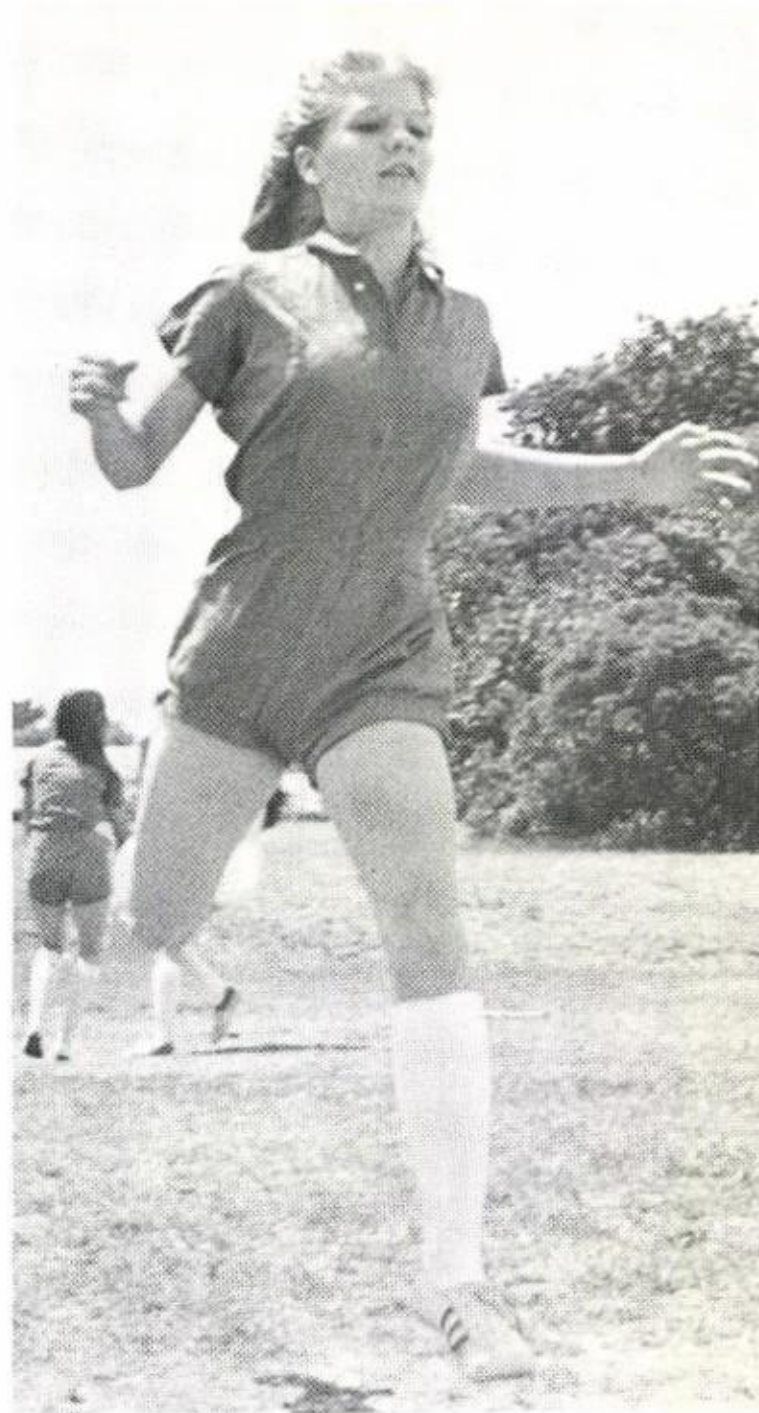

Ricky Phillips, Mike Kessler, and Dan Tucker play archery at Bronco Bowl for Lifesports Class.

Boys' PE classes are mainly under the instruction of Coach Henderson.

Miss Allison's PE class find themselves outside playing softball.

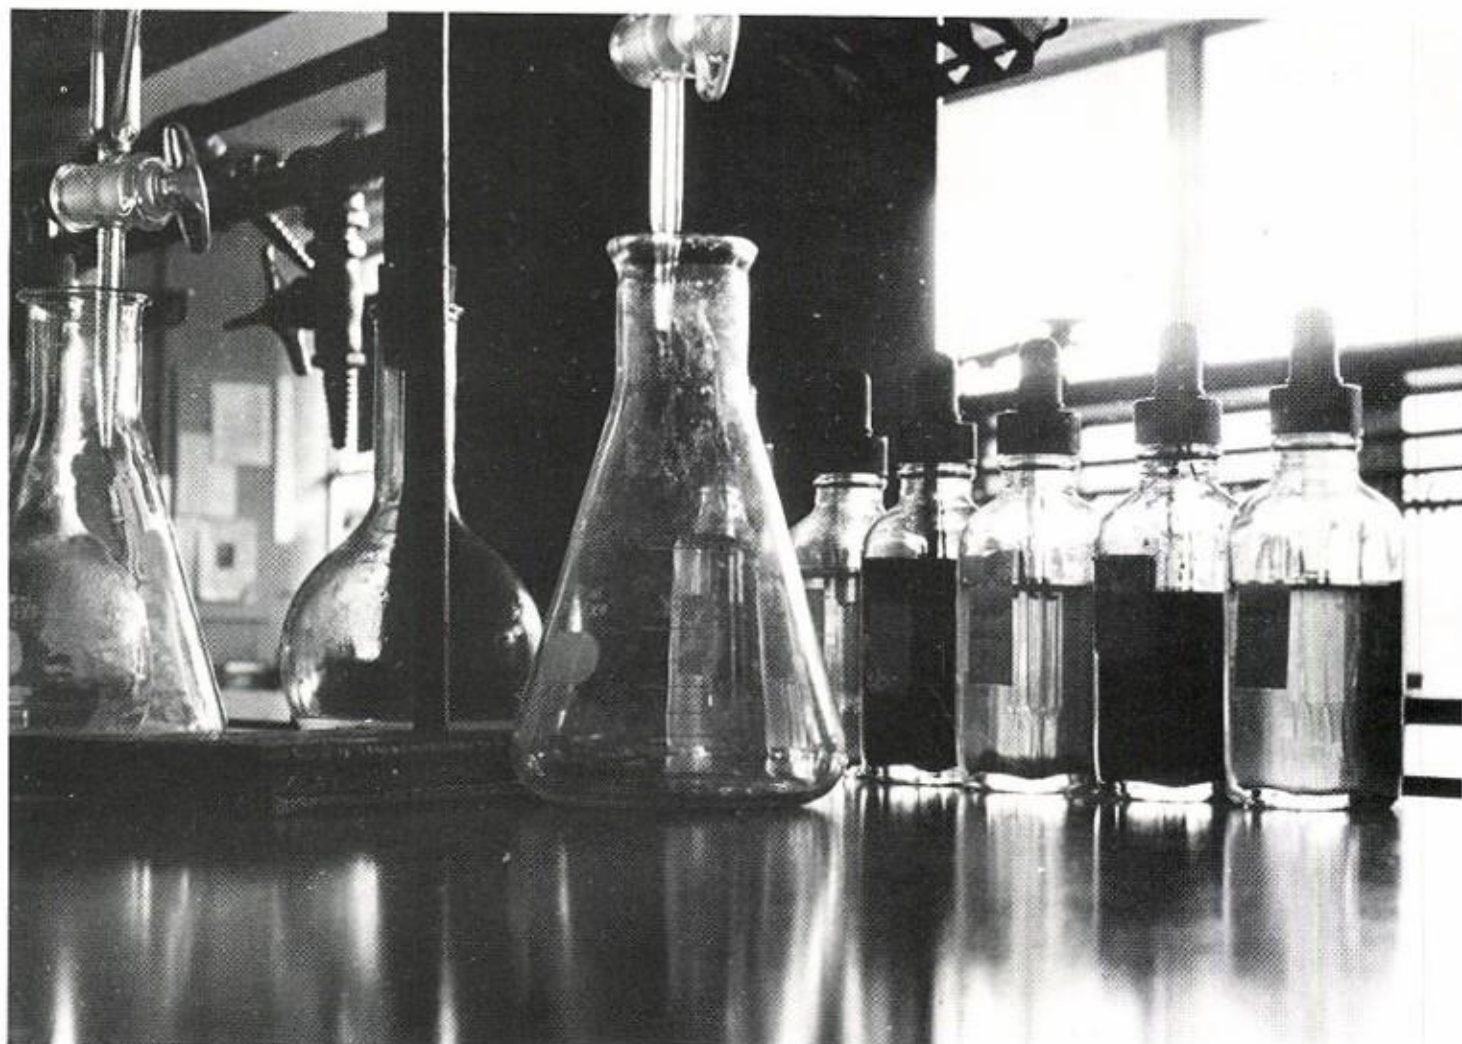

Ellen Solchenberger runs to first base.

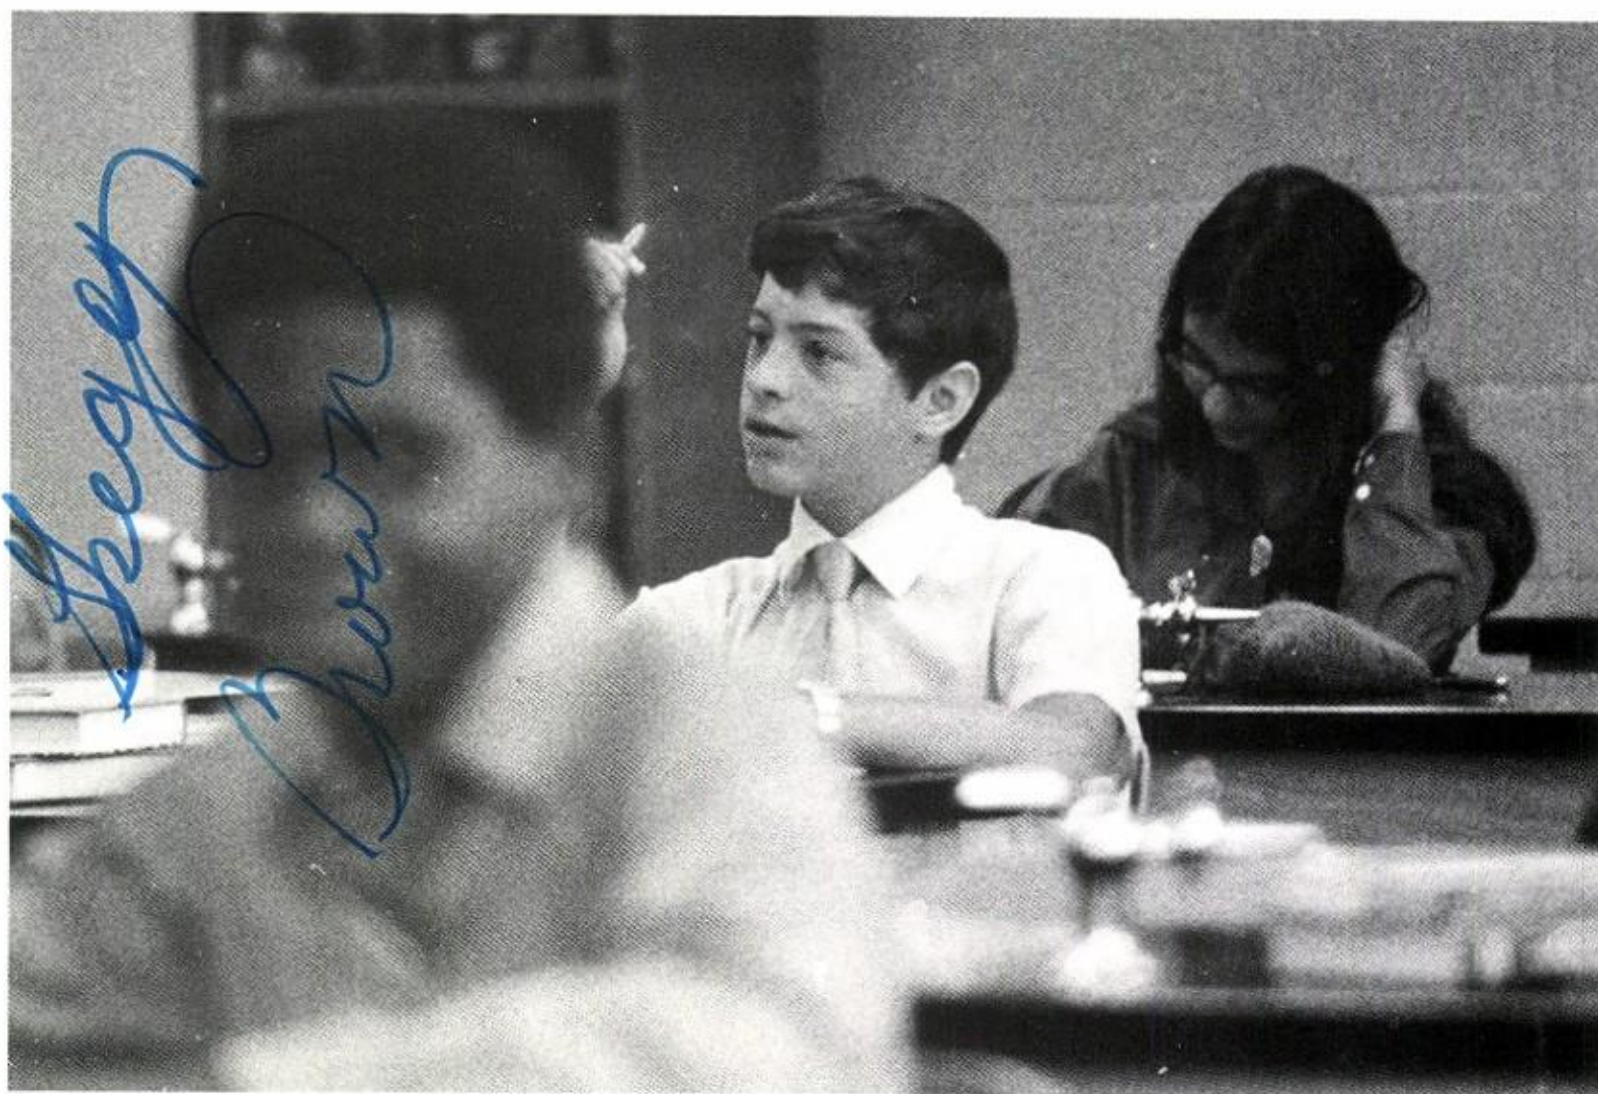

Miss Allison and girls watch activity from the sidelines.

Science

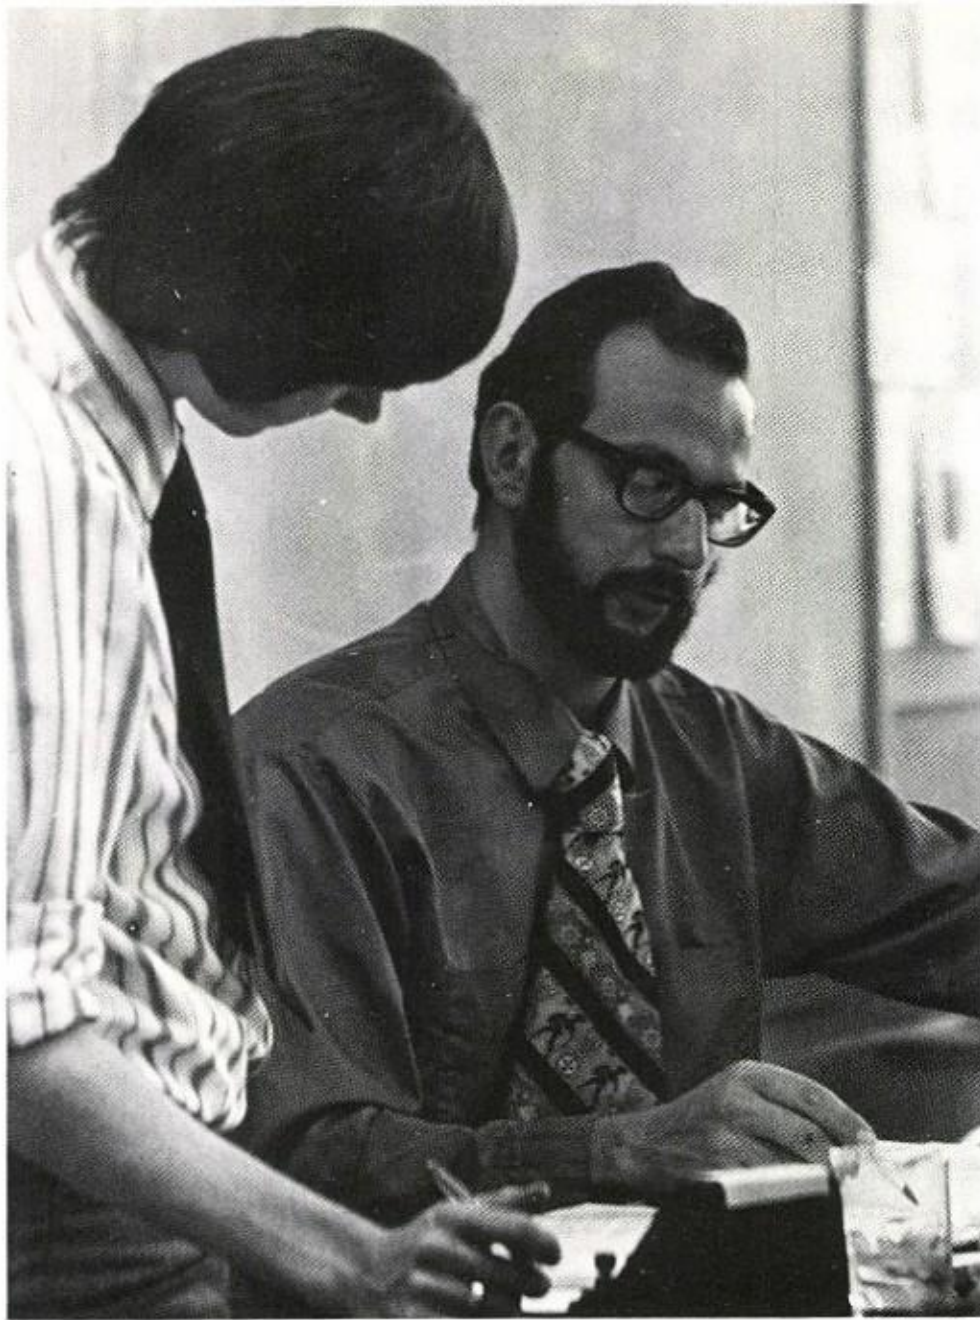

Science students were concerned with experimentation and discovery. Throughout the year, a knowledge of plants, animals, matter, and the composition of substances was gained as emphasis was placed on the student's self-discovery and insight.

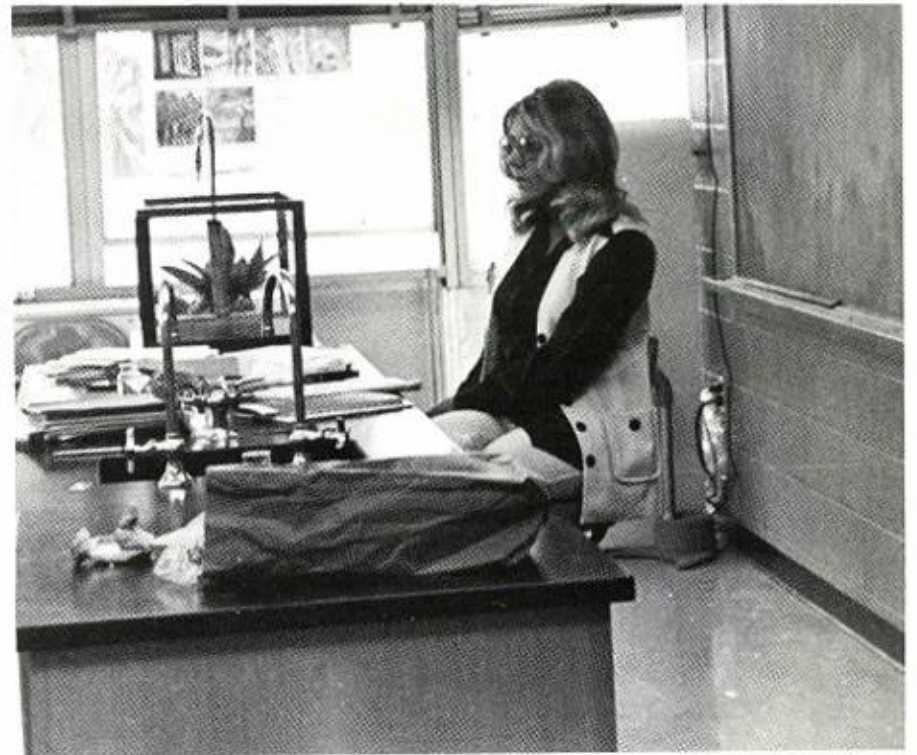

Colorful chemistry experiment finds students involved with acids and bases.

Bill Kelly receives aid on his Chemistry LAP from Brother Joe.

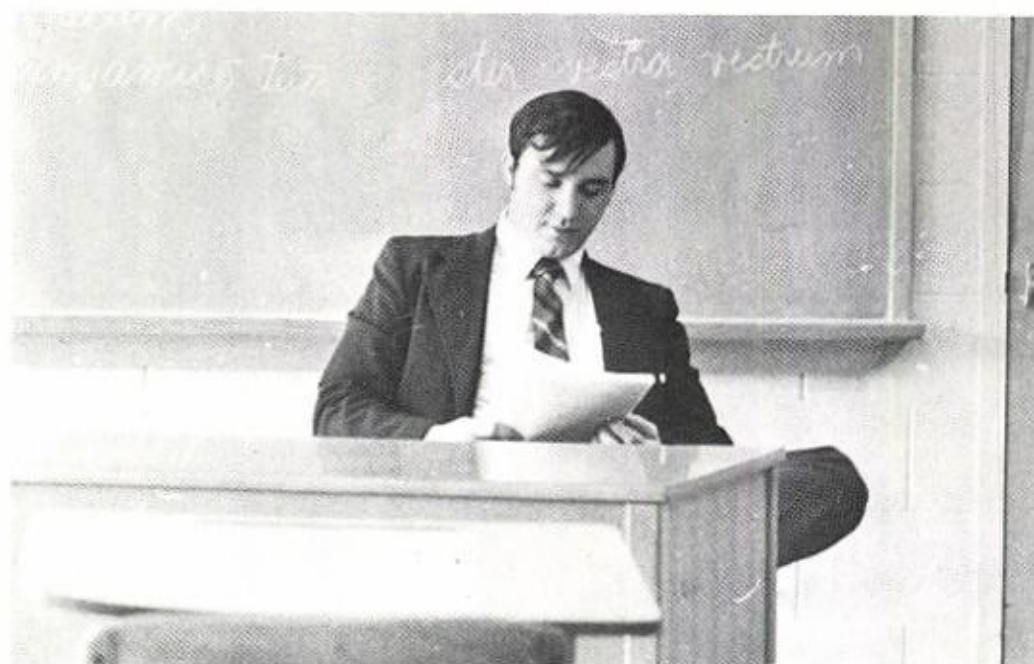

Mrs. Jones lectures during biology class.

Mr. Eckelkamp and Vickie Ciardo work together on an experiment.

Social Studies

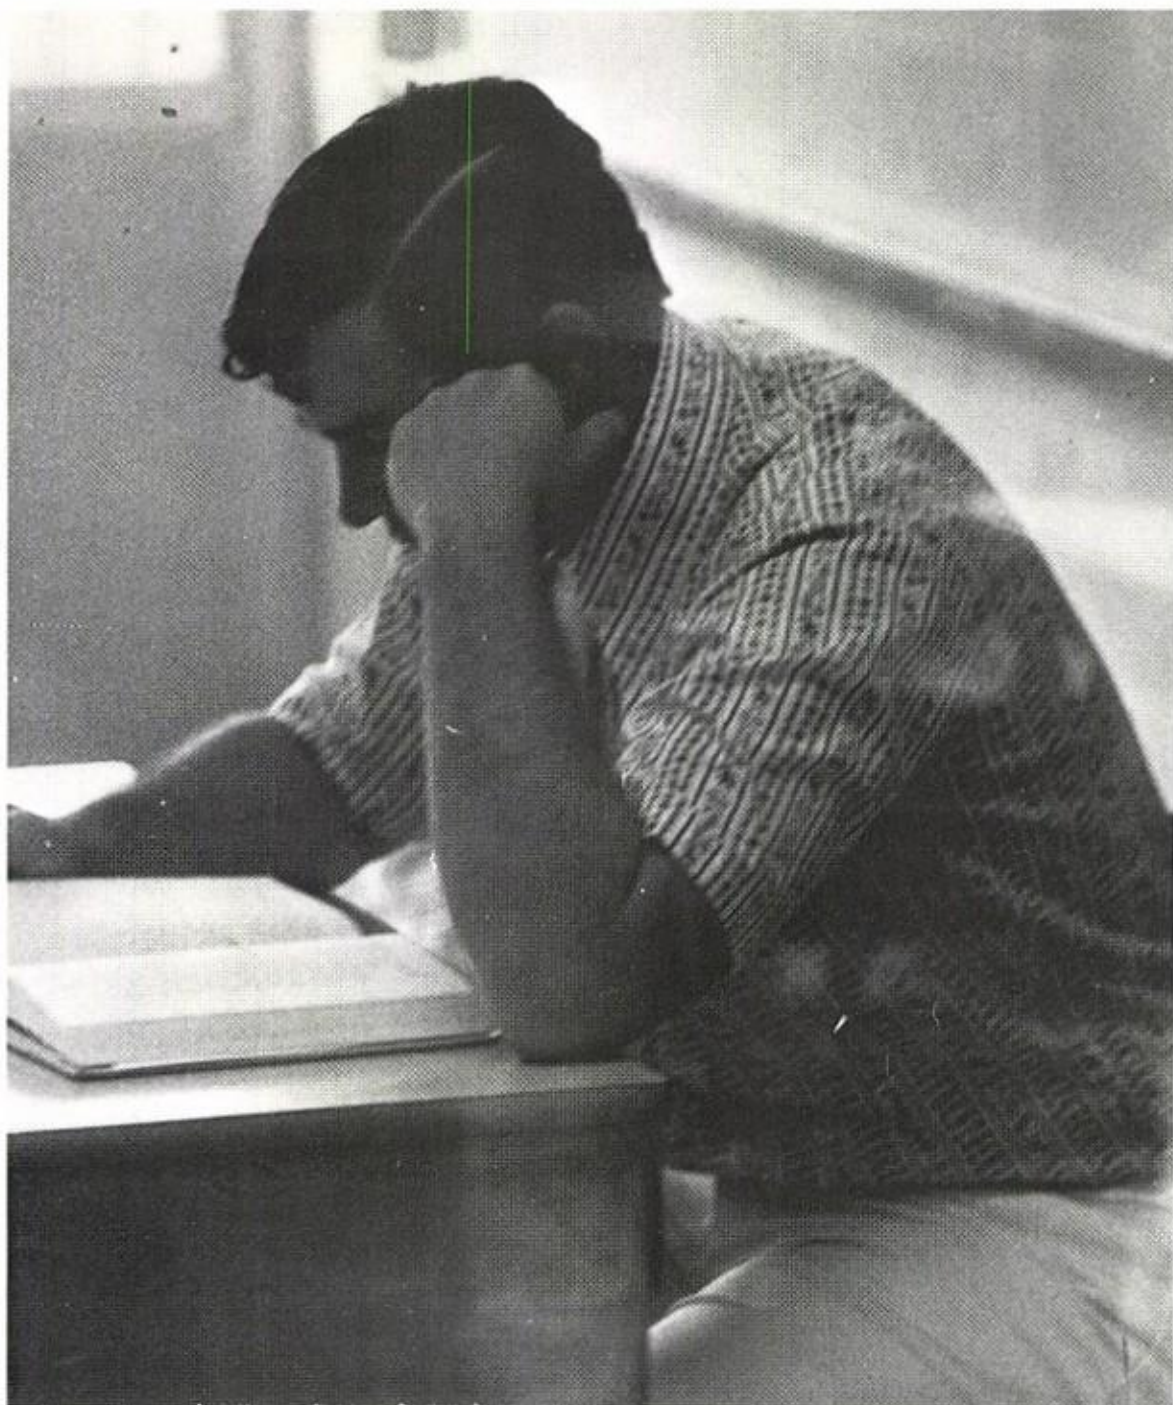

The Social Studies program was expanded to include Comparative Political Systems and Economics as well as both World and American History. Students became involved in community and state politics as the election year draws nearer.

Mr. Benedict reviews a Government assignment.

Brother Patrick finds two of his students amusing.

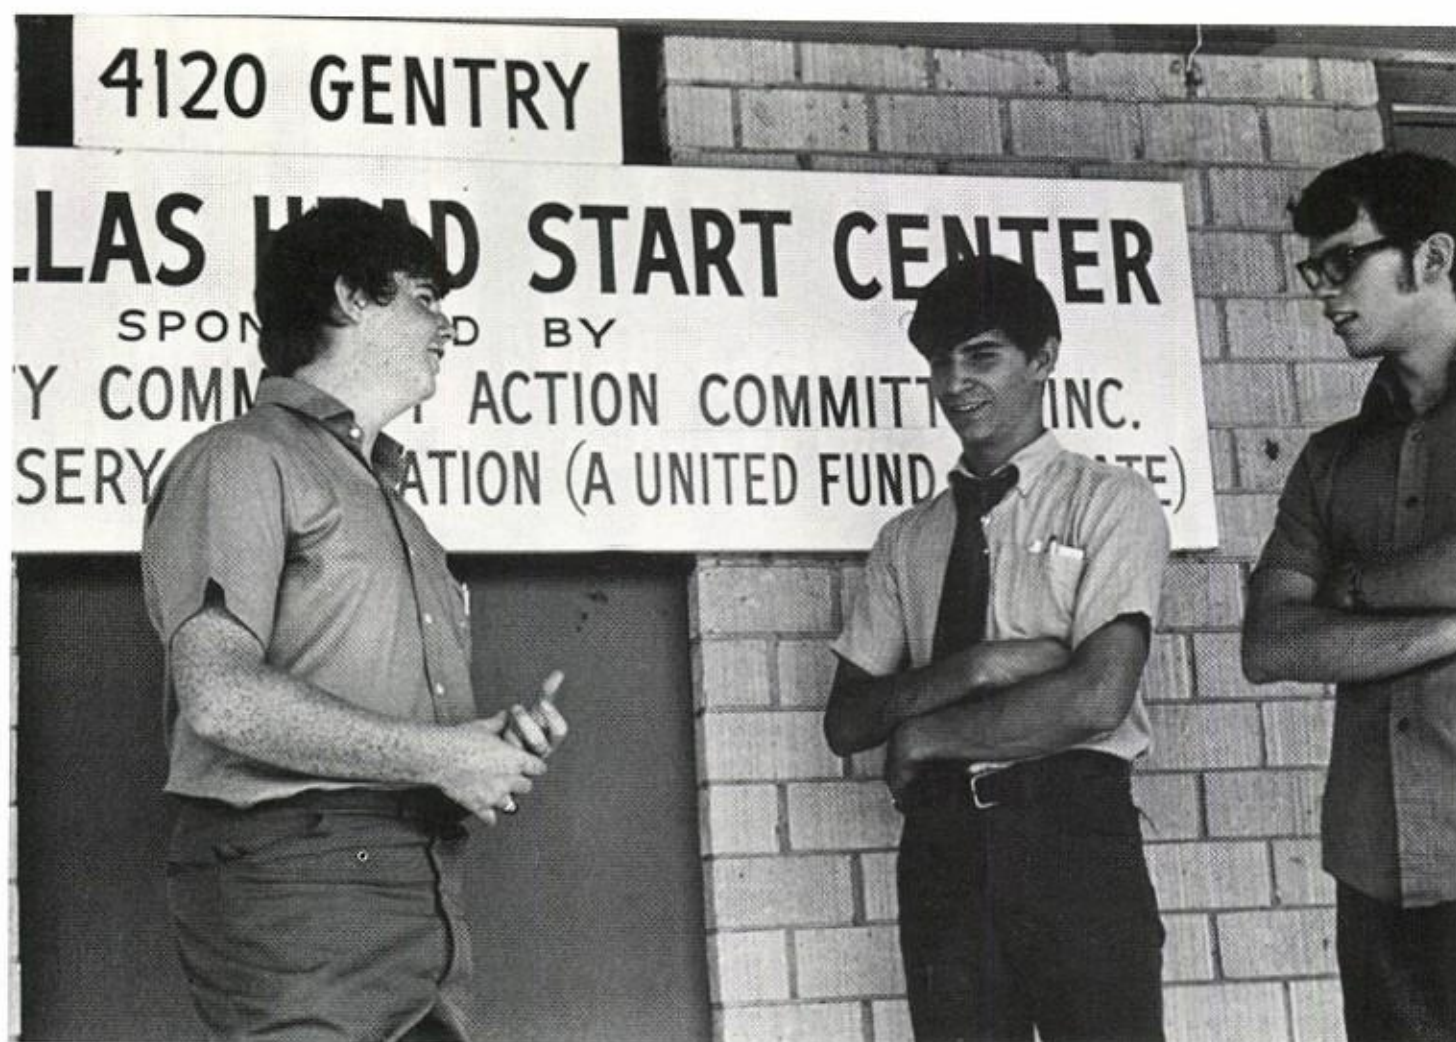

Mr. Benedict prepares for class.

Mr. Hauser teaches both Psychology and Logic to Seniors.

Theology

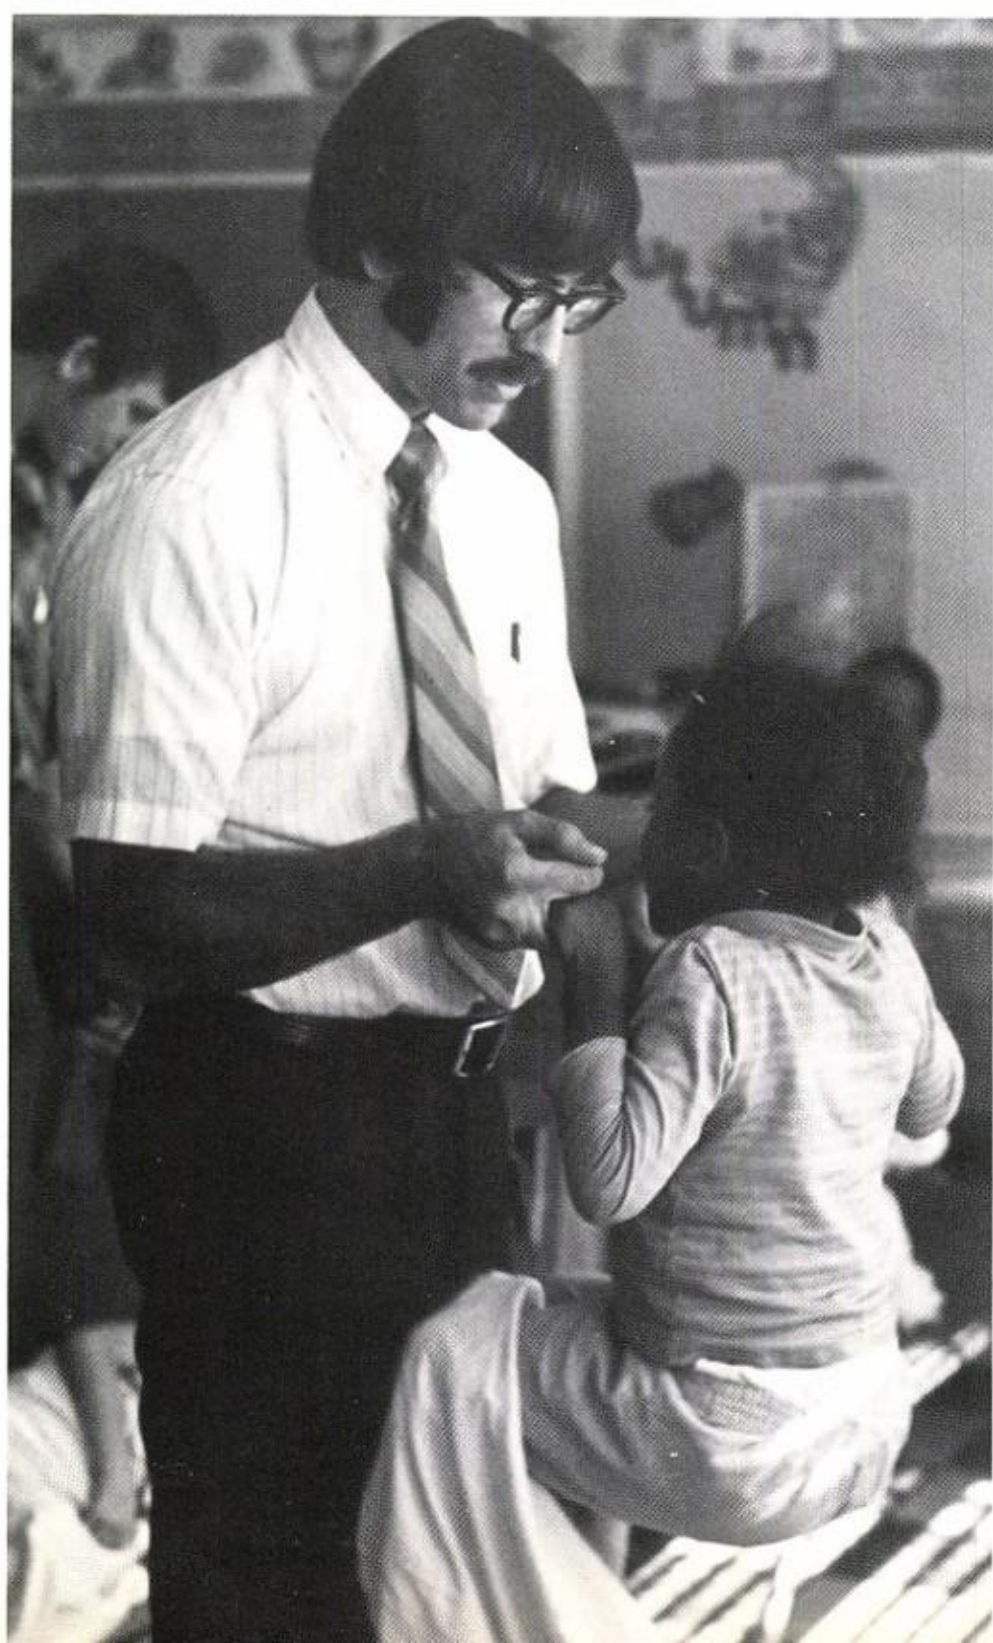

A major change of the year saw Seniors out in the community offering their services to those in need. At Dunne, courses in morality, marriage, and commitment were offered.

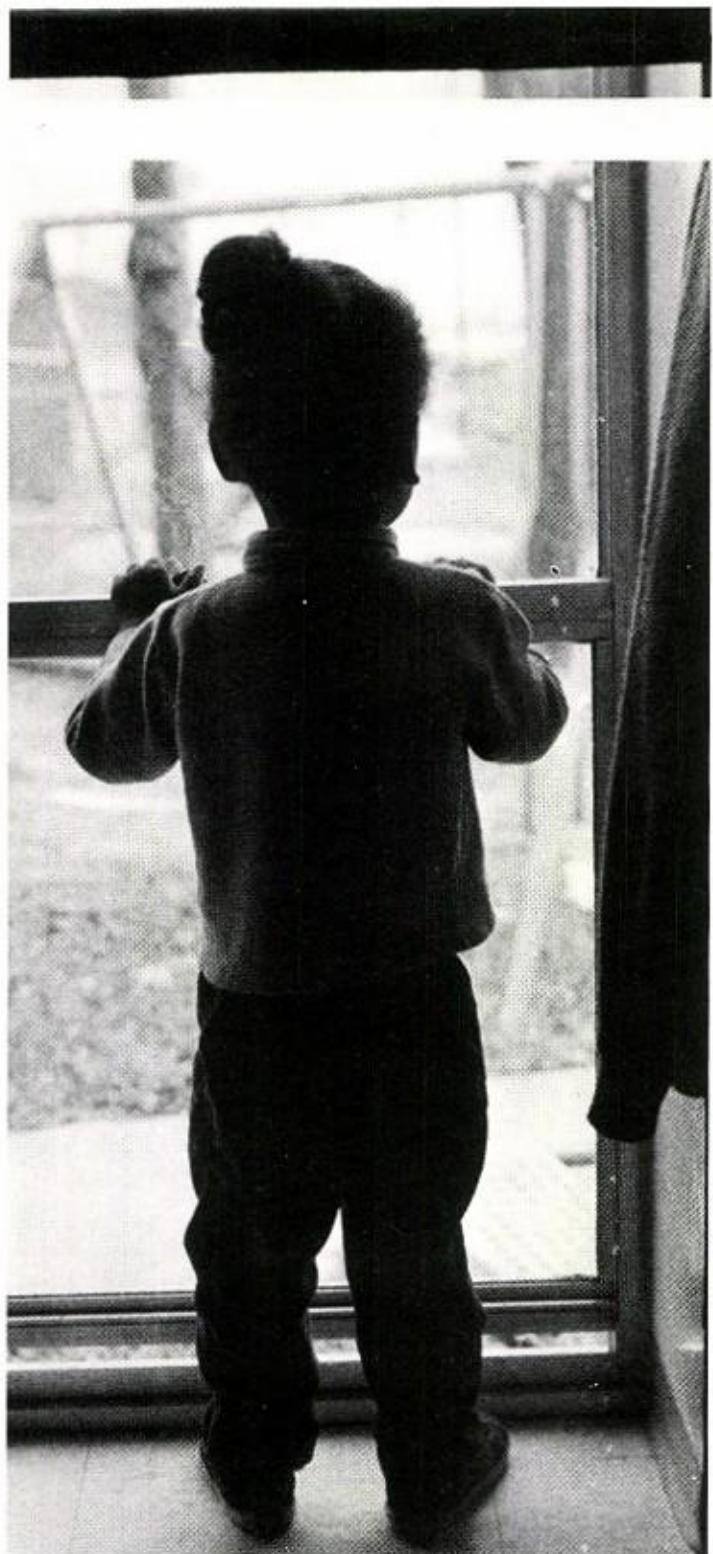

Steve Sechreist, Chuck Steiner, and Glen Keiser meet at the Head Start Center.

Eighth Grade

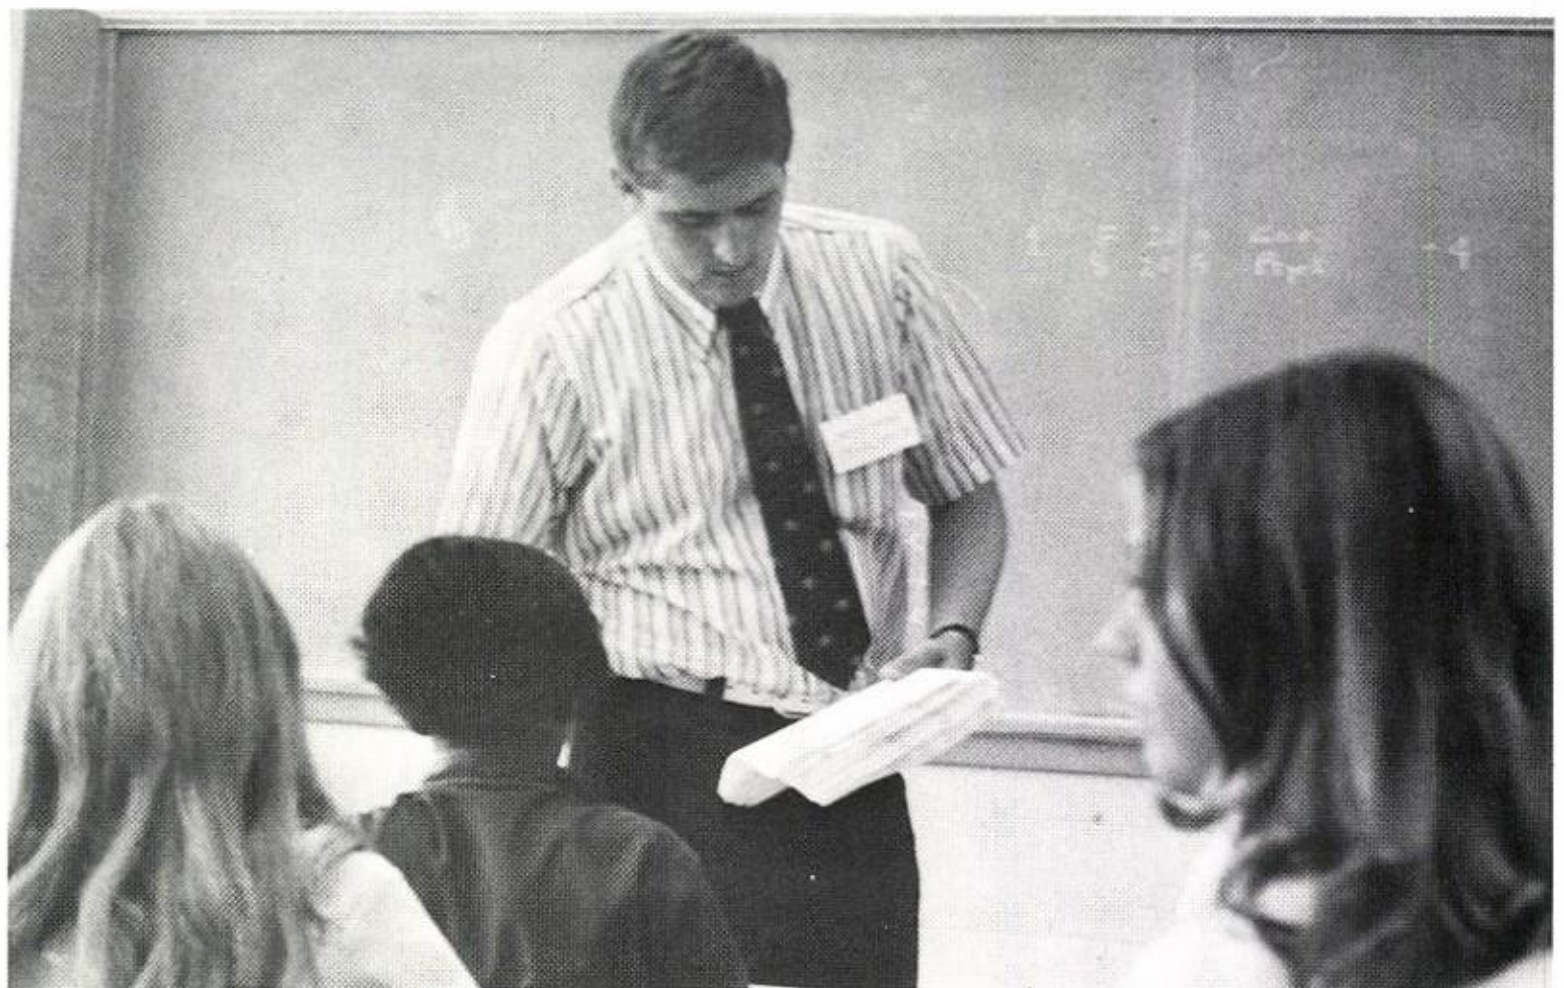

All Eighth Graders followed a schedule which offered them general courses which they will find useful in high school. A few were able to take a foreign language and Algebra.

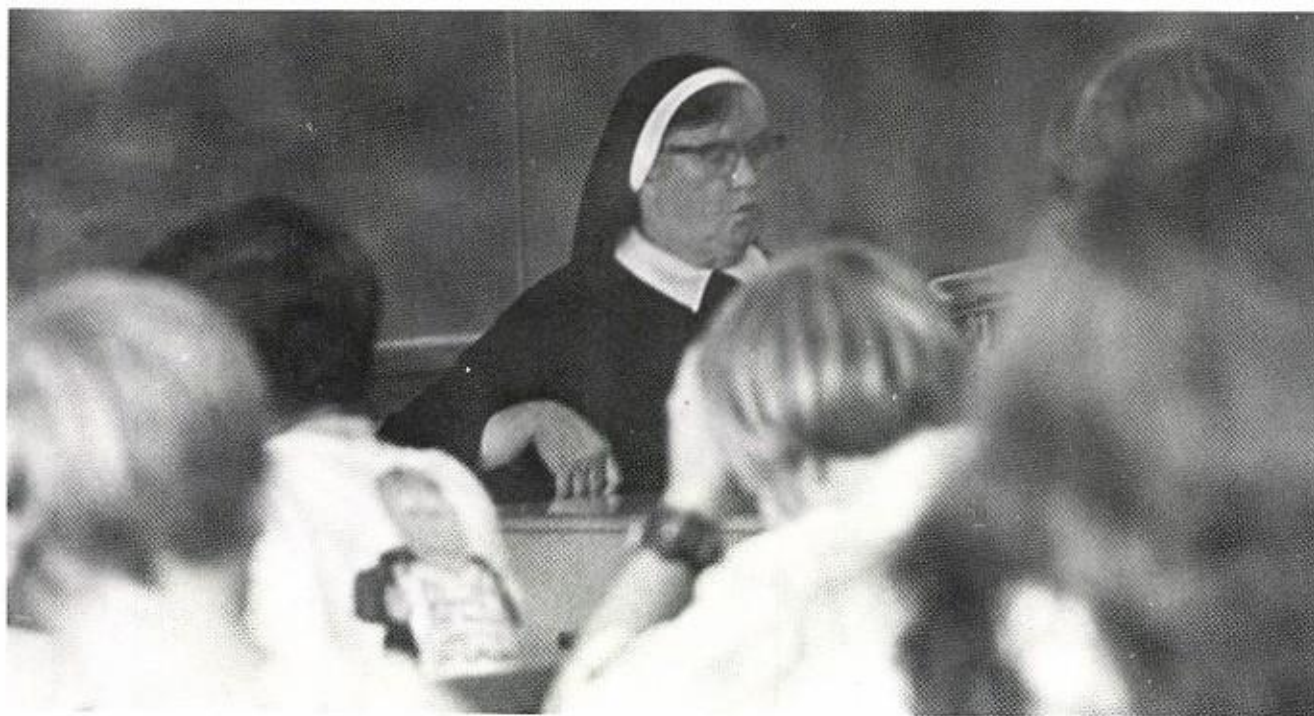

Mrs. Empey lectures to her English class.

Mr. Stone, who teaches various 8th grade subjects, is often found in the science lab.

Mr. Rainwater distributes science tests.

Sr. Mary Isabelle drills her class in the principles of grammar.

Mrs. Spain holds large group class in the auditorium.
